FESS - FOR - PRESIDENT BOOM STARTED

SUGGESTED AS BEST FITTED TO SUCCEED TO COOLIDGE CHAIR

Keynoter Position Offers Strategic Position

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A Fess-for-president boom has been started here today by Representative Charles J. Thompson, Republican, Ohio, who says no nearer duplicate of President Coolidge could be found than the Ohio senator.

Thompson, a supporter of the late Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio in his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination, said Mr. Fess, who has been chosen to sound the keynote at the Kansas City convention, had the qualifications that fit him to be Ohio's candidate for president.

"All the rascals, high and low, will fade before his presence," Thompson said. "They cannot help but respect him. He would make an executive for the great republic as wonderful and safe, as good and honest as Mr. Coolidge.

"In my opinion he will be the next president of the United States."

Representative Thompson later left for Daytona Beach, Fla., to rest for a month.

Senator Fess was credited by a majority of the Ohio delegation with having prevented an open indorsement of the candidacy of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, Illinois, at the meeting of the Willis candidates in Columbus.

According to the story told by certain of the Ohio members, the Willis managers conducted a conference in Columbus Monday night, at which it was decided to make Lowden the first choice of the Willis candidates, now that their own leader was gone. The plan, according to the version told here today, was to have that action ratified formally at the meeting of the candidates the following night.

Senator Fess, it is said, became aware of the plan in Columbus yesterday, and immediately served notice on the Willis managers that he would repudiate it if such action were taken. He is said to have told them that an indorsement of Lowden could not be interpreted in any other way than as a slap at President Coolidge, since Lowden is advocating a plan of farm relief that is distasteful to the President.

Mr. Fess' view prevailed in the end, and no attempt was made to give Lowden a blanket indorsement, although many of the Willis candidates are known to favor

TENDERFOOT SCOUT SAVES SMALL CHILD

TOLEDO, O., April 5.—Today, Leo Nachtrab, 12, is the candidate for a hero medal; yesterday he was just a tenderfoot boy scout. Leo saved the life of Lee Francis Adair, 3, who fell into the quicksands of Sibley Creek when he attempted to catch a frog. Leo was attracted to the scene by the screams of seven-year-old Jacqueline Adair, Lee's sister.

Seeing the boy sinking into the quicksands, the Boy Scout grasped a willow branch and leaned out over the water, seized the sinking Adair boy by the hair and brought him to shore.

YOUNG BUSINESS MAN HELD FOR MURDER OF SCHOOL TEACHER

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 5—Frederick Hinman Knowlton, Jr., prosperous young business man of Framingham, was held today in connection with the death of Marguerite Isabelle Stewart, Beverly teacher-supervisor, whose bruised body was found beside the Cambridge Turnpike in Concord last Friday night.

Knowlton, who has a wife and five-year-old son, admitted he had been friendly with the girl, had been on an automobile ride with her the night she died and washed and renovated his roadster with water and chloride of lime the next day.

Grilling of Knowlton, who is thirty-four years old and operates an electric and automobile battery establishment in Framingham, was interrupted long enough to let him have a little sleep and to take him to Concord District Court for arraignment on a murder charge.

Suspenders should be lavender by all means, and no one should think of leaving the house without purple supporters. Everything else should be tan, although the style book neglects to mention belts and underwear.

OHIO BELL EXPECTS TO SPEND $100,000 IN EXPANSION HERE

Company Announces Five Year Program Of Improvements

An expansion and improvement program which will require an outlay of nearly $100,000 in Xenia during the next five years was announced today by The Ohio Bell Telephone Company, with work expected to start early next year.

The five-year program calls for an expenditure of $82,000 in routine jobs in various parts of the city, $6,000 for outside plant, and $3,000 for central office equipment. There is also much work in addition to this which is now being done or will be done on toll lines in surrounding areas.

"Each year the company prepares a provisional estimate or budget for the following year and the next four years," said H. W. Cleaver, Ohio Bell commercial manager here.

"The foregoing figures are in the latest estimate. The budget plan accepts the lessons from past experience and anticipates the company's future problems and possibilities. In final form, it is a statistical summary of all data obtained from past performance and it is a forecast of future performance. The new plant mentioned above is only part of that which will be placed, such as new telephones, new house wiring, and other equipment incidental to expansion of plant.

"The provisional estimate does not include operation and maintenance costs, which occur even if we did no expansion work, and and which in themselves require quite an outlay of funds even under the most economical policy."

The company has nearly completed one job in Xenia .This was the placing of 1,100 feet of fifty-pair cable extension to replace open

CLEVELAND, April 5.—A man giving his name as John Ryan, 49, was held under bond of $5,000 here today, at the instigation of federal secret service agents, who say the man, with the aid of a woman accomplice, passed bogus half dollars on several downtown stores.

MRS. VIC DONAHEY AND DAUGHTER HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Auto Crashes Into Machine Occupied By Ex-Xenians

Mrs. Vic Donahey, wife of the Ohio governor, and their daughter, Mrs. James W. Huffman, wife of a member of the public utilities commission, were injured, not seriously, when their auto collided with the rear of a machine driven by the Rev. Asa Kestle, Bellefontaine, former pastor of the First M. E. Church, Xenia, near East Liberty, O., late Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Donahey sustained four deep cuts about the face, when she was pitched forward in the front seat into the windshield, shattering it.

The auto was also occupied by Marian, 12, another daughter of the governor, and Margaret, fifteen-months'-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Huffman. They escaped injury as did the driver of the car, Hampton Adams, the governor's chauffeur.

Mrs. Huffman sustained a fractured right arm, resulting when she extended it to protect her little daughter from injury when she saw the accident impending. She was thrown to the floor of the car.

The Rev. Mr. Kestle, now pastor of the M. E. Church at Bellefontaine, was accompanied by his wife formerly Miss Marguerite Charters, of Xenia. Both were unhurt. They were driving to Columbus to celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary.

The collision resulted as the governor's car was about to pass the Rev. Mr. Kestle's auto after blowing the horn. The former Xenian's car suddenly stopped because of a stalled engine and the driver of the governor's auto, rather than avoid a collision by taking to a ditch on either side of the road, decided in favor of hitting the rear of the machine.

The occupants of the governor's car were on their way to Columbus from Indian Lake. Mrs. Donahey exonerated all parties from blame.

The Kestle machine, a sedan purchased eight weeks ago, was damaged slightly with one tire blown out. The governor's car was towed to Columbus.

Occupants of the Donahey car, following the crash, were taken to University Hospital, Columbus, by Dr. C. A. Parmer. After their injuries were dressed, they were taken to their respective homes.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL AUTO CRASH VICTIM

COSHOCTON, O., April 5.—The body of Miss Margaret Hampshire, 19, Newark High School senior, was to be sent to her home today, following her instant death last night at Frazeysburg, when the auto in which she was riding overturned.

The auto was driven by George Pheiffer, Newark, according to reports. The car had collided with a second and was overturned when the impact threw the front wheels out of alignment.

Pheiffer was not injured.

PLANE READY FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

DUBLIN, April 5.—With the Bremen in perfect shape for an immediate take-off, the German fliers today hoped to be able to attempt their transatlantic flight within a few days.

The wooden runway constructed for the plane's hop-off is being extended at Baldonnel airfield so that if weather conditions improve over the Atlantic, the flight will not be held up by a soggy field.

NAMED POLICEMAN

TOLEDO, O., April 5.—Thomas S. Case, former railroad detective was a city patrolman today as his reward for fatally shooting a robber taxi driver and capturing a bandit, here several weeks ago.

HOLD DEATH AUTO DRIVER ON BOND

GROOTEGOED

CLEVELAND, April 2.—After being arraigned on a charge of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Alice Leonard, 15, at Mayfield Heights, January 28, last, Roy Grootegoed 20, also of Mayfield Heights, today was held under $10,000 bond. He was to be given a preliminary hearing today.

Further questioning of the youth by county authorities failed to shake his story that he had been "too scared" to report that it was his auto which struck the girl at Mayfield Heights, Cleveland suburb, more than two months ago, after which he carried her body into a nearby field, where it was found early this week.

INDIAN GIRL HOPES TO WIN MAHARAJAH FROM SEATTLE WIFE

Dancer Leaves Husband To Woo Former Sweetheart.

LONDON, April 5.—A beautiful Indian dancing girl—Mumtaz Begum—whose charms cost Tukojirao Holkar his throne as Maharajah of Indore, may intrude Cleopatra-like into the honeymoon joys of the former Maharajah and his American wife, Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, Wash., according to an Amritsar dispatch to the Indian News Service today.

According to rumor, the dispatch says, Mumtaz Begum, with whom the former Maharajah was once infatuated, has left her present husband with the intention of winning Tukojirao Holkar away from his American bride of less than a month.

The Indian News Service states that the rumor caused the greatest possible sensation at Amritsar, where, it is reported, the dancing girl will endeavor to see the ex-Maharajah before he and his bride leave for Europe on their bridal tour.

Mumtaz was said to be confident of rewinning the former Maharajah's affection.

According to previous revelations the ex-potentate was banished from his throne and his country after he had instigated the murder of Abdul Bawla, a rich merchant, with whom Mumtaz, at that time the ex-Maharajah's favorite dancing girl, had taken refuge.

At the time of his marriage to Miss Miller with Hindoo rites it was understood that a movement was under way to regain the throne of Indore for Tukojirao Holkar.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 5.—The city in which Nancy Ann Miller grew to womanhood and became a prominent social leader, had in its midst today the beginning of a movement opposing the return of the Hindu bride and her husband, Tukojirao Holkar, former Maharajah of Indore, to the United States.

The movement of protest against the entry of the former Seattle society girl and her Hindu husband, was launched here by the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church at a meeting of the organization.

TWO INJURED WHEN PLANE IS WRECKED

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Two men were cut and bruised when the airplane in which they were flying from New York to Pitcairn aviation field, Bryn Athyn, was wrecked in a crash near Jenkintown.

William Patterson, pilot of New York may have a broken nose in addition to other injuries. His passenger was James McAllister, Brooklyn.

MANUFACTURER MAY HAVE ANTICIPATED EMBARGO REMOVAL

Market Depressed By Order To Lift Restrictions.

LONDON, April 5.—Henry Ford, who is now on his way to Europe, may enter into negotiations with British and Dutch rubber producers to buy raw rubber at low prices, which are now prevailing as a result of the British government's decision to remove production restrictions on November 1, it was reported here today.

It is even believed in some quarters that Mr. Ford had either advance knowledge or a premonition of the government's action and timed his European trip accordingly.

The rubber market was further depressed today by Premier Baldwin's announcement in the house of commons that the British restrictions in Malaya and Ceylon will be removed and it is possible that contracts may be possible within a few weeks at approximately sixteen cents a pound. The prediction was made by Sir Robert Hutchinson chief Liberal "whip", that the price may sink to fourteen cents a pound.

Hopes that the government might reconsider its decision were dashed today. International News Service learned from an authoritative source close to the cabinet that the decision is irrevocable. This informant said:

"The premier's statement was the result of the highest and most confidential technical advice and it represents the government's last word in the matter. Henceforth, it is hoped, the ordinary laws of supply and demand will reassert themselves. Probably the lower price of rubber will stimulate production. The industry should now re-establish itself without outside aid. Meanwhile any negotiations between Dutch and British rubber growers will remain matters of their own concern."

With the price of crude rubber continually slumping, enabling American and other automobile markers to buy at the cheapest price since 1922, predictions are being made that the use of reclaimed rubber advocated by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover when the price was at the peak, will be largely discontinued.

It is assumed by some that Ford may abandon his project to establish rubber plantations in Brazil and that Harvey Firestone may forego his attempt to grow rubber in Liberia as rubber cannot be produced in either of those countries and marketed as cheaply as from the eastern plantations covered by the British decree.

American interests may henceforth concentrate upon the purchase of British estates which will be unable to survive the present crisis in the industry.

As the United States is the world's biggest producer of automobiles the sharp decline in the price of rubber is of the highest importance to that country. But American losses involved in the Baldwin announcement will be enormous. More than a year ago when America was slowly recovering from the shock of paying a dollar a pound for the commodity a pool was formed in the United States to purchase rubber and heavy commitments were made to buy up future deliveries at prices much higher than those prevailing at present.

LIQUOR DESERTED BY AUTO THIEVES

COLUMBUS, O., April 5. — Five "hi-jackers" and the owner of 105 gallons of "corn" were being sought by police here today.

The men entered a hotel garage early today, flourishing guns, held the garage attendant at bay and attempted to drive away a large roadster from the second floor, according to police.

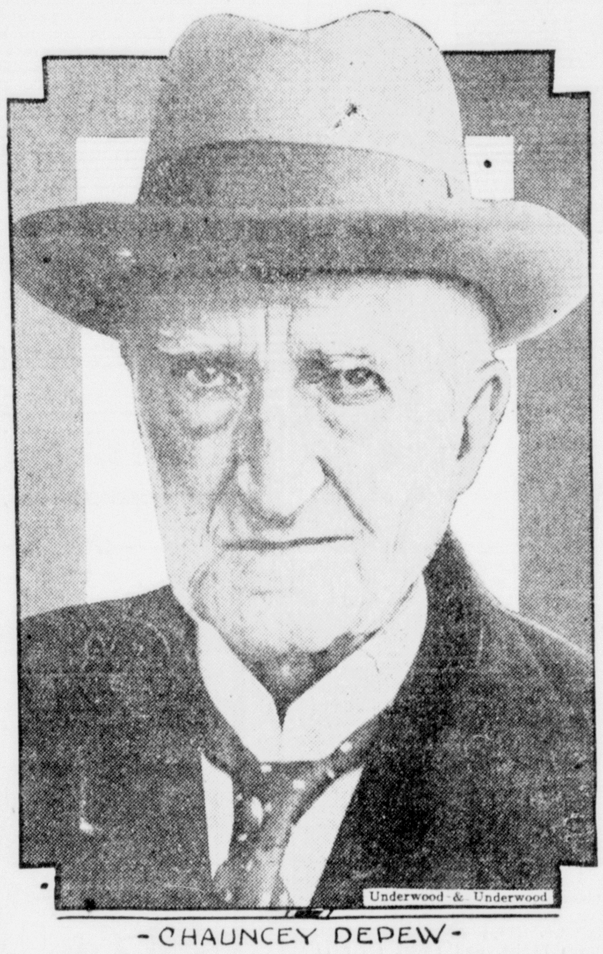

In descending a spiral driveway the car stalled and was abandoned.

Police were called and found 105 gallons of liquor in the roadster.

WILL BUILD PLANT

TOLEDO, O., April 5.—Immediate construction of a $1,500,000 assembly plant for the Willys-Overland Company, at Los Angeles, has been announced here by officials of the company. Cars for the Pacific coast, Hawaii, the Philippines, Alaska and the Orient will be assembled there.

TURNER RULES HOME TEACHERS SUBJECT TO CIVIL SERVICE

Should Comply With Provisions Of State Education Department Attorney General Tells Limb.

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Attorney General Edward C. Turner, in a ruling given today to M. R. Limb, Wooster, O., chairman of the board of trustees of the O. S. and S. O. Home, Xenia, held that persons holding the positions of teacher or instructor in the Home, which positions the State Civil Service Commission has not found to be impracticable to include in the competitive classified service, are in the competitive classified civil service of the state and are subject to the civil service laws relating to the appointments and removal of employes in the classified civil service.

"In determining the merit and fitness of the applicant for the position of teacher in such institutions, the State Civil Service Commission should take into account valid regulations or orders made by the superintendent of public instruction touching the qualifications of teachers in such institutions under Ohio Laws.

"The violation of or failure to observe any such valid regulation or order of the superintendent of public insurnction by any teacher of said institution should be taken into consideration by the officers of said institution and the State Civil service Commission in proceedings relating to the removal of any such teacher," Turner's opinion said.

SENATE FARM BLOC ATTEMPTS TO ENACT FARM RELIEF BILL

Drive Launched For Early Consideration In House

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The senate farm bloc buckled down today to a drive for enactment of the compromise McNary-Haugen farm relief bill within the next week.

The bloc leaders were greatly encouraged by the action of corn belt farmers in unanimously endorsing the new bill at their Des Moines conference. The corn belt men, representing twenty-three groups of farm organizations, "cordially approved" the bill.

A movement meanwhile was started in the house to get the farm measure considered in the lower branch of congress before action is taken on the flood control bill. The farm bloc spokesmen, if defeated in this effort, will try to have their measure acted upon after flood control.

The new bill, after being sidetracked in the senate for two days for an appropriation bill, will be debated the rest of this week, its sponsors were hopeful of getting a final vote by next Tuesday or Wednesday. This would enable the house to pass upon it before the end of April, allowing a full month for presidential action and an effort to re-enact it over a veto if it met White House disapproval.

DROWNS IN RIVER

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—Leo Jones, 10, is dead at the home of his father, Lee Jones, today, drowning victim of the first spring school holiday. He slipped from a dam into the Olentangy River as he played with his companions. His body was not found for four hours as his companions were too frightened to report the tragedy.

BICEP RACERS ARE TRYING OUT TEXAS

AMARILLO, Texas, April 5.—C. C. ("Cross Country") Pyle's ninety-one bunion derbyists dug their toes into the soil of the Texas panhandle today as they scampered toward Amarillo, their thirty-third trol thirty-five miles from Vega.

Arne Suominen, Detroit naprapath, leader in the race with an elapsed time of 189:45:10 for the 1152 miles from Los Angeles, had an edge of 5 hours, 15 minutes 32 seconds over Andrew Payne, youthful Oklahoman. Payne's margin over Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, was cut to 1 hour 53 minutes 59 seconds when the latter traversed the 37.3 miles from Glenrio, N. M. to Vega, Texas, in 5:14:10.

Olli Wanttinen, ninety-six pound New York Finn, continued to forge ahead, finishing about twenty seconds behind Gavuzzi.

FAMED RAILROADER WIT AND STATESMAN PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Near 94th Birthday; Ex-U. S. Senator Was Noted Speaker

NEW YORK, April 5.—Chauncey Mitchell Depew, chairman of the board of directors of the New York Central Railroad, former United States senator and long a prominent figure in the Republican party, died of bronchial pneumonia at his home here at 4:30 o'clock this morning. He was 93 years old.

Mr. Depew fell into a deep sleep at seven o'clock last evening and died without regaining consciousness, according to a statement issued by his physicians. Members of his family were summoned into the sick room at three o'clock and remained at the bedside until the end.

Mr. Depew suffered a slight chill upon his return from St. Petersburg, Fla., last week, and was confined to his home with a cold. Late yesterday his physicians announced that his condition had taken a turn for the worse, but stated that his general condition was not alarming.

RELATIVES AT BEDSIDE

Despite the reassurances of the doctors, Mr. Depew's entire family was called to the home. The relatives at the bedside were Mrs. Depew; a son, Chauncey M. Depew, Jr.; a niece, Miss Anne Depew Paulding; and a nephew, Chauncey Depew Steele, of Briarcliff Manor, N. Y.

Although bronchial pneumonia is considered a serious illness for a man of Mr. Depew's age, physicians in attendance were confident almost until the end that he would recover, and the suddenness of his death came as something of a shock. He partook of some light nourishment yesterday and last night his temperature dropped from 104 to 102, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians.

Formal announcement of Mr. Depew's death was made by his physicians, Dr. Samuel W. Lamtert and Dr. H. Lyman Hooker, at the Depew home, 27 W. 54th St. Only yesterday morning they had announced that their noted patient was suffering from nothing worse than a cold and that there was no cause for alarm.

Mr. Depew was still active this year as the head of the New York Central's board of directors. He had planned to attend the Republican national convention in Kansas City on June 12. The Cleveland convention of 1924 was the first he had missed since 1888.

PLANNED PABTY

Mr. Depew had made plans for an informal birthday celebration on April 23. On that date he would have been ninety-four years old.

Upon each of his birthdays in recent years, Mr. Depew had received newspaper reporters at his office for interviews. Upon these occasions he would reveal his philosophy on politics, business, art, the "younger generation" and every subject upon which the eager reporters questioned him.

These interviews were liberally spiced by Mr. Depew's humor. He was one of the most entertaining after-dinner speakers in the country, and demands for his presence as toastmaster at banquets were unceasing.

Gifted as an orator, Depew became a prominent public figure early in life.

CELINA, OHIO, BANK ROBBED OF $9,000

CELINA, O., April 5.—Mercer County and Indiana state authorities today were seeking two bandits who escaped after robbing the bank of St. Henry, near here, of $9,000 in cash and an undetermined amount of negotiable bonds, late yesterday. The unmasked men drove to the bank in an auto and held up the bank president, William Rohmer, his daughter, Elizabeth, who acted as cashier, and one customer. The car bore an Indiana license, and headed for the Indiana border following the robbry.

EXPECT CHICAGO PRIMARY WILL BE MARKED BY MANY DISORDERS

CHICAGO, April 5—With the United States government's announced policy of "hands off" in Chicago's volcanic political situation, grave concern was expressed today for the orderly conduct of the primary election next Tuesday.

United States Marshal Palmer Anderson had asked permission to swear in 500 deputy marshals to assist local authorities in guarding the polls. This was refused in an official communicaton from Attorney General Sargent at Washington.

Simultaneously Police Commissioner Michael Hughes announced it would be impossible to station police officers at all polling places.

There are many faction-torn precincts where two or more officers should be posted at each voting place.

Many persons in Chicago, especially women, are actually afraid to go to the polls. It is believed in some quarters that the governments' announcement not to help maintain order at the polls will seriously restrict the voting.

SPURNED WOMAN MURDERED BY LOVER WHO COMMITS SUICIDE

NEW YORK, April 5.—Tiring of another man's wife, Harry Angelo killed her and then took his own life, police said today. The bodies of Angelo and the woman, Mrs. Ida Schnier, were found in Angelo's apartment last night, but medical examiners said the shooting probably had occurred Saturday or Sunday.

Harry Schnier, the woman's husband, had been looking for her since last Friday. Breaking into Angelo's apartment with the aid of detectives, he found the bodies and the following taunting note, addressed to him by Angelo:

"You have been a fool. I want to get rid of your wife. Take her back. My wife is coming home any day."

Neighbors told police Mrs. Angelo left home a year ago to care for a paralytic sister in Stamford, Conn.

Angelo was forty years old. Mrs. Schnier was thirty and a mother.

PLANE READY FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHT

DUBLIN, April 5.—With the Bremen in perfect shape for an immediate take-off, the German fliers today hoped to be able to attempt their transatlantic flight within a few days.

The wooden runway constructed for the plane's hop-off is being extended at Baldonnel airfield so that if weather conditions improve over the Atlantic, the flight will not be held up by a soggy field.

NAMED POLICEMAN

TOLEDO, O., April 5.—Thomas S. Case, former railroad detective was a city patrolman today as his reward for fatally shooting a robber taxi driver and capturing a bandit, here several weeks ago.

HOLD DEATH AUTO DRIVER ON BOND

GROOTEGOED

CLEVELAND, April 2.—After being arraigned on a charge of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Alice Leonard, 15, at Mayfield Heights, January 28, last, Roy Grootegoed 20, also of Mayfield Heights, today was held under $10,000 bond. He was to be given a preliminary hearing today.

Further questioning of the youth by county authorities failed to shake his story that he had been "too scared" to report that it was his auto which struck the girl at Mayfield Heights, Cleveland suburb, more than two months ago, after which he carried her body into a nearby field, where it was found early this week.

INDIAN GIRL HOPES TO WIN MAHARAJAH FROM SEATTLE WIFE

Dancer Leaves Husband To Woo Former Sweetheart.

LONDON, April 5.—A beautiful Indian dancing girl—Mumtaz Begum—whose charms cost Tukojirao Holkar his throne as Maharajah of Indore, may intrude Cleopatra-like into the honeymoon joys of the former Maharajah and his American wife, Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, Wash., according to an Amritsar dispatch to the Indian News Service today.

According to rumor, the dispatch says, Mumtaz Begum, with whom the former Maharajah was once infatuated, has left her present husband with the intention of winning Tukojirao Holkar away from his American bride of less than a month.

The Indian News Service states that the rumor caused the greatest possible sensation at Amritsar, where, it is reported, the dancing girl will endeavor to see the ex-Maharajah before he and his bride leave for Europe on their bridal tour.

Mumtaz was said to be confident of rewinning the former Maharajah's affection.

According to previous revelations the ex-potentate was banished from his throne and his country after he had instigated the murder of Abdul Bawla, a rich merchant, with whom Mumtaz, at that time the ex-Maharajah's favorite dancing girl, had taken refuge.

At the time of his marriage to Miss Miller with Hindoo rites it was understood that a movement was under way to regain the throne of Indore for Tukojirao Holkar.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 5.—The city in which Nancy Ann Miller grew to womanhood and became a prominent social leader, had in its midst today the beginning of a movement opposing the return of the Hindu bride and her husband, Tukojirao Holkar, former Maharajah of Indore, to the United States.

The movement of protest against the entry of the former Seattle society girl and her Hindu husband, was launched here by the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church at a meeting of the organization.

TWO INJURED WHEN PLANE IS WRECKED

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—Two men were cut and bruised when the airplane in which they were flying from New York to Pitcairn aviation field, Bryn Athyn, was wrecked in a crash near Jenkintown.

William Patterson, pilot of New York may have a broken nose in addition to other injuries. His passenger was James McAllister, Brooklyn.

MANUFACTURER MAY HAVE ANTICIPATED EMBARGO REMOVAL

Market Depressed By Order To Lift Restrictions.

LONDON, April 5.—Henry Ford, who is now on his way to Europe, may enter into negotiations with British and Dutch rubber producers to buy raw rubber at low prices, which are now prevailing as a result of the British government's decision to remove production restrictions on November 1, it was reported here today.

It is even believed in some quarters that Mr. Ford had either advance knowledge or a premonition of the government's action and timed his European trip accordingly.

The rubber market was further depressed today by Premier Baldwin's announcement in the house of commons that the British restrictions in Malaya and Ceylon will be removed and it is possible that contracts may be possible within a few weeks at approximately sixteen cents a pound. The prediction was made by Sir Robert Hutchinson chief Liberal "whip", that the price may sink to fourteen cents a pound.

Hopes that the government might reconsider its decision were dashed today. International News Service learned from an authoritative source close to the cabinet that the decision is irrevocable. This informant said:

"The premier's statement was the result of the highest and most confidential technical advice and it represents the government's last word in the matter. Henceforth, it is hoped, the ordinary laws of supply and demand will reassert themselves. Probably the lower price of rubber will stimulate production. The industry should now re-establish itself without outside aid. Meanwhile any negotiations between Dutch and British rubber growers will remain matters of their own concern."

With the price of crude rubber continually slumping, enabling American and other automobile markers to buy at the cheapest price since 1922, predictions are being made that the use of reclaimed rubber advocated by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover when the price was at the peak, will be largely discontinued.

It is assumed by some that Ford may abandon his project to establish rubber plantations in Brazil and that Harvey Firestone may forego his attempt to grow rubber in Liberia as rubber cannot be produced in either of those countries and marketed as cheaply as from the eastern plantations covered by the British decree.

American interests may henceforth concentrate upon the purchase of British estates which will be unable to survive the present crisis in the industry.

As the United States is the world's biggest producer of automobiles the sharp decline in the price of rubber is of the highest importance to that country. But American losses involved in the Baldwin announcement will be enormous. More than a year ago when America was slowly recovering from the shock of paying a dollar a pound for the commodity a pool was formed in the United States to purchase rubber and heavy commitments were made to buy up future deliveries at prices much higher than those prevailing at present.

LIQUOR DESERTED BY AUTO THIEVES

COLUMBUS, O., April 5. — Five "hi-jackers" and the owner of 105 gallons of "corn" were being sought by police here today.

The men entered a hotel garage early today, flourishing guns, held the garage attendant at bay and attempted to drive away a large roadster from the second floor, according to police.

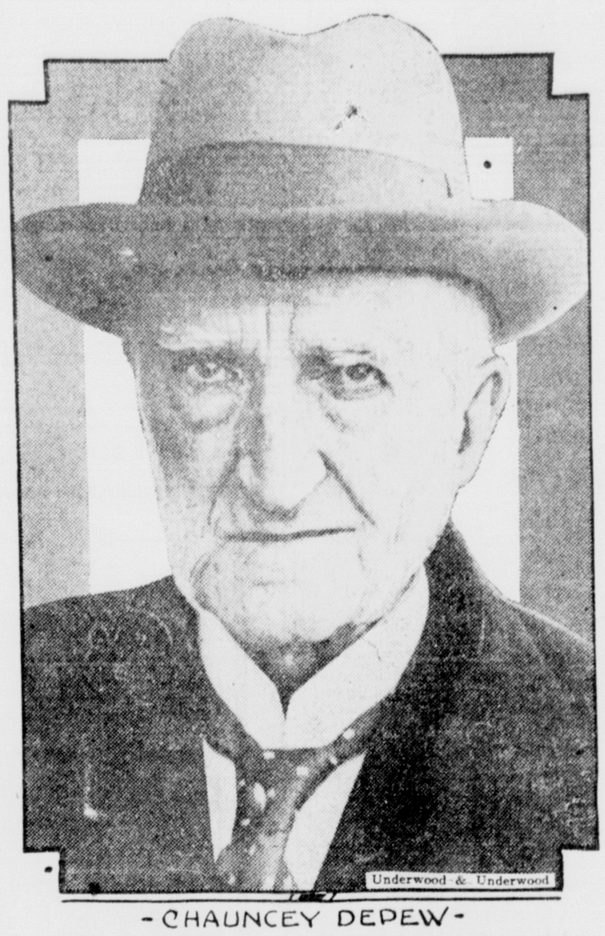

In descending a spiral driveway the car stalled and was abandoned.

Police were called and found 105 gallons of liquor in the roadster.

WILL BUILD PLANT

TOLEDO, O., April 5.—Immediate construction of a $1,500,000 assembly plant for the Willys-Overland Company, at Los Angeles, has been announced here by officials of the company. Cars for the Pacific coast, Hawaii, the Philippines, Alaska and the Orient will be assembled there.

TURNER RULES HOME TEACHERS SUBJECT TO CIVIL SERVICE

Should Comply With Provisions Of State Education Department Attorney General Tells Limb.

COLUMBUS, O., April 5—Attorney General Edward C. Turner, in a ruling given today to M. R. Limb, Wooster, O., chairman of the board of trustees of the O. S. and S. O. Home, Xenia, held that persons holding the positions of teacher or instructor in the Home, which positions the State Civil Service Commission has not found to be impracticable to include in the competitive classified service, are in the competitive classified civil service of the state and are subject to the civil service laws relating to the appointments and removal of employes in the classified civil service.

"In determining the merit and fitness of the applicant for the position of teacher in such institutions, the State Civil Service Commission should take into account valid regulations or orders made by the superintendent of public instruction touching the qualifications of teachers in such institutions under Ohio Laws.

"The violation of or failure to observe any such valid regulation or order of the superintendent of public instruction by any teacher of said institution should be taken into consideration by the officers of said institution and the State Civil service Commission in proceedings relating to the removal of any such teacher," Turner's opinion said.

SENATE FARM BLOC ATTEMPTS TO ENACT FARM RELIEF BILL

Drive Launched For Early Consideration In House

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The senate farm bloc buckled down today to a drive for enactment of the compromise McNary-Haugen farm relief bill within the next week.

The bloc leaders were greatly encouraged by the action of corn belt farmers in unanimously endorsing the new bill at their Des Moines conference. The corn belt men, representing twenty-three groups of farm organizations, "cordially approved" the bill.

A movement meanwhile was started in the house to get the farm measure considered in the lower branch of congress before action is taken on the flood control bill. The farm bloc spokesmen, if defeated in this effort, will try to have their measure acted upon after flood control.

The new bill, after being sidetracked in the senate for two days for an appropriation bill, will be debated the rest of this week, its sponsors were hopeful of getting a final vote by next Tuesday or Wednesday. This would enable the house to pass upon it before the end of April, allowing a full month for presidential action and an effort to re-enact it over a veto if it met White House disapproval.

DROWNS IN RIVER

COLUMBUS, O., April 5.—Leo Jones, 10, is dead at the home of his father, Lee Jones, today, drowning victim of the first spring school holiday. He slipped from a dam into the Olentangy River as he played with his companions. His body was not found for four hours as his companions were too frightened to report the tragedy.

BICEP RACERS ARE TRYING OUT TEXAS

AMARILLO, Texas, April 5.—C. C. ("Cross Country") Pyle's ninety-one bunion derbyists dug their toes into the soil of the Texas panhandle today as they scampered toward Amarillo, their thirty-third trol thirty-five miles from Vega.

Arne Suominen, Detroit naprapath, leader in the race with an elapsed time of 189:45:10 for the 1152 miles from Los Angeles, had an edge of 5 hours, 15 minutes 32 seconds over Andrew Payne, youthful Oklahoman. Payne's margin over Peter Gavuzzi, Southampton, England, was cut to 1 hour 53 minutes 59 seconds when the latter traversed the 37.3 miles from Glenrio, N. M. to Vega, Texas, in 5:14:10.

Olli Wanttinen, ninety-six pound New York Finn, continued to forge ahead, finishing about twenty seconds behind Gavuzzi.

FAMED RAILROADER WIT AND STATESMAN PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Near 94th Birthday; Ex-U. S. Senator Was Noted Speaker

NEW YORK, April 5.—Chauncey Mitchell Depew, chairman of the board of directors of the New York Central Railroad, former United States senator and long a prominent figure in the Republican party, died of bronchial pneumonia at his home here at 4:30 o'clock this morning. He was 93 years old.

Mr. Depew fell into a deep sleep at seven o'clock last evening and died without regaining consciousness, according to a statement issued by his physicians. Members of his family were summoned into the sick room at three o'clock and remained at the bedside until the end.

Mr. Depew suffered a slight chill upon his return from St. Petersburg, Fla., last week, and was confined to his home with a cold. Late yesterday his physicians announced that his condition had taken a turn for the worse, but stated that his general condition was not alarming.

RELATIVES AT BEDSIDE

Despite the reassurances of the doctors, Mr. Depew's entire family was called to the home. The relatives at the bedside were Mrs. Depew; a son, Chauncey M. Depew, Jr.; a niece, Miss Anne Depew Paulding; and a nephew, Chauncey Depew Steele, of Briarcliff Manor, N. Y.

Although bronchial pneumonia is considered a serious illness for a man of Mr. Depew's age, physicians in attendance were confident almost until the end that he would recover, and the suddenness of his death came as something of a shock. He partook of some light nourishment yesterday and last night his temperature dropped from 104 to 102, according to a bulletin issued by his physicians.

Formal announcement of Mr. Depew's death was made by his physicians, Dr. Samuel W. Lamtert and Dr. H. Lyman Hooker, at the Depew home, 27 W. 54th St. Only yesterday morning they had announced that their noted patient was suffering from nothing worse than a cold and that there was no cause for alarm.

Mr. Depew was still active this year as the head of the New York Central's board of directors. He had planned to attend the Republican national convention in Kansas City on June 12. The Cleveland convention of 1924 was the first he had missed since 1888.

PLANNED PARTY

Mr. Depew had made plans for an informal birthday celebration on April 23. On that date he would have been ninety-four years old.

Upon each of his birthdays in recent years, Mr. Depew had received newspaper reporters at his office for interviews. Upon these occasions he would reveal his philosophy on politics, business, art, the "younger generation" and every subject upon which the eager reporters questioned him.

These interviews were liberally spiced by Mr. Depew's humor. He was one of the most entertaining after-dinner speakers in the country and demands for his presence as toastmaster at banquets were unceasing.

Gifted as an orator, Depew became a prominent public figure early in life.

CELINA, OHIO, BANK ROBBED OF $9,000

CELINA, O., April 5.—Mercer County and Indiana state authorities today were seeking two bandits who escaped after robbing the bank of St. Henry, near here, of $9,000 in cash and an undetermined amount of negotiable bonds, late yesterday. The unmasked men drove to the bank in an auto and held up the bank president, William Rohmer, his daughter, Elizabeth, who acted as cashier, and one customer. The car bore an Indiana license, and headed for the Indiana border following the robbry.

EXPECT CHICAGO PRIMARY WILL BE MARKED BY MANY DISORDERS

CHICAGO, April 5—With the United States government's announced policy of "hands off" in Chicago's volcanic political situation, grave concern was expressed today for the orderly conduct of the primary election next Tuesday.

United States Marshal Palmer Anderson had asked permission to swear in 500 deputy marshals to assist local authorities in guarding the polls. This was refused in an official communicaton from Attorney General Sargent at Washington.

Simultaneously Police Commissioner Michael Hughes announced it would be impossible to station police officers at all polling places.

There are many faction-torn precincts where two or more officers should be posted at each voting place.

Many persons in Chicago, especially women, are actually afraid to go to the polls. It is believed in some quarters that the governments' announcement not to help maintain order at the polls will seriously restrict the voting.

SPURNED WOMAN MURDERED BY LOVER WHO COMMITS SUICIDE

NEW YORK, April 5.—Tiring of another man's wife, Harry Angelo killed her and then took his own life, police said today. The bodies of Angelo and the woman, Mrs. Ida Schnier, were found in Angelo's apartment last night, but medical examiners said the shooting probably had occurred Saturday or Sunday.

Harry Schnier, the woman's husband, had been looking for her since last Friday. Breaking into Angelo's apartment with the aid of detectives, he found the bodies and the following taunting note, addressed to him by Angelo:

"You have been a fool. I want to get rid of your wife. Take her back. My wife is coming home any day."

Neighbors told police Mrs. Angelo left home a year ago to care for a paralytic sister in Stamford, Conn.

Angelo was forty years old. Mrs. Schnier was thirty and a mother.

LINDBERGH - THE HERO WHOM NOBODY KNOWS - IS REAL JOKER

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, left; Richard R. Blythe, right; Harry R. Bruno, center.

By CLARK KINNAIRD
Staff Writer for Central Press and Gazette

NEW YORK, April 5—There is a Lindbergh nobody knows. A mysterious figure has been hiding behind a wall of reserve since the flying colonel became the world's hero.

Although more has been written about "Lindy" in the last year than any other person in the world, comparatively little is known about intimate, revealing details of his personal life. The Lindbergh the public is acquainted with is only half of him. The twenty-six-year-old flyer has discouraged every attempt to penetrate his shielding reticence. He has even become pugnacious when he considered it violated, as one New York writer, not a regular newspaperman, well knows.

The men who know most about Lindbergh's personal existence, Harry A. Bruno and Richard R. Blythe, are preserving their information for their memoirs. They have rejected fabulous offers from magazines and syndicates for "inside" stories of Lindbergh's achievement and closeups of his life beyond range of the spotlight. Blythe was the last man on these shores to see Lindy before he took off for Paris, and the first man to see him on his return. He was his constant companion on his triumphal tour.

Bruno and Blythe were Lindy's public relations counsel, or press agents. Of course the flyer did not need nor utilize exploitation for himself or his feat. However, he considered it important that the countless details of receptions, dinners, parades, invitations, mail and personal interviews be suitably arranged. Numerous individuals and organizations sought to capitalize on his tremendous popularity to further their own ends. Despite the terrific pressure of this mass adulation and the extraordinary situations into which he was thrust, Lindbergh's popularity was never compromised.

These young men aren't displaying any of their Lindbergh letters, or recalling any of their daily conversations with him, but from other near intimates and chance acquaintances it has been possible to compile some authentic new and revelatory facts, heretofore unpublished.

The aviation hero is a practical joker. On the cruiser Memphis, on the return from France, he secretly fitted up his bathroom to resemble a study, and invited a newspaperman to see it. As the correspondent entered, Lindy slipped out, locked the door, and turned on showers that gave the journalist a warm soaking. Later Lindbergh victimized three gold-braided and dignifed officers in the same way.

In New York, after the return, he was especially active in playing jokes upon his friends. One morning he arose early, obtained a pitcher of cracked ice, slipped into a friend's room, opened the sleeping man's pajama coat and dumped the pitcher upon him. On another morning he filled a sleeping friend's mouth, ears and hair with tooth paste. In Scarsdale, N. Y., on an unannounced visit, he gave a friend a dousing with water that made a change in clothing necessary.

He never has been companionable. When he was a student aviator, he did not associate with his fellows. Most of the youngsters were broke, and spent their idle hours around the hangars. Others gathered for talkfests, but Lindy usually crept under a plane and took a nap.

He has never seen motion pictures of himself. He doesn't read newspaper stories about his achievements. Seeing LINDBERGH in a headline is enough to make him lay a paper down. He doesn't read books, unless they pertain to aviation mechanics. He doesn't smoke or drink except to appear companionable, and frankly says he doesn't like to do either. He doesn't play cards. Unless the subject is aviation, he is a dull conversationalist.

He is afraid of women now. He imagines that women he meets are interested in him only because of his reputation, and that some of them are out to snare him.

He doesn't have any dinner table eccentricities. He eats ordinary fare with relish, and finds eating a comfortable way to pass time at a laudatory banquet.

He wrote all of "We" except a few pages, which were done by Fitzhugh Green, a New Yorker. A "ghost-writer" was proposed by the publisher, but when Lindbergh saw some of the substitute's product, he refused to allow the book issued under his name unless he wrote it himself. The material was set down in large long hand, in ink, on big sheets of paper. The flyer did a few pages every morning, regardless of the press of engagements, but was so careful about the work, rewriting and revising it, that his publishers were afraid the book wouldn't be out in time to be a best-seller.

He didn't write the original "By Lindbergh" dispatches from France, but he did pen those published during his Mexican-Central American tour, sometimes setting them down while he was in flight.

At least one noted aviator refused to fly Lindbergh's plane, "Spirit of St. Louis," because he didn't consider it was safe. Its unusual design made it difficult (for others than Lindy) to fly. There is no direct vision from the pilot's seat, and without a sort of periscope the pilot would be "blind."

When a writer published what Lindbergh regarded as confidential information, the flyer had to be cajoled into changing his mind about cancelling all engagements for the day and going out to give the offender a bit of physical reprimand.

The flyer now has a fortune of over $1,000,000. He has no connection, other than honorary office, with any organization or commercial concern.

He intends to live in St. Louis for the next year, rest, possibly write and design planes.

Aside from the many decorations and awards, he was made the recipient of many gifts by commercial concerns. The only two of these gifts he accepted were automobiles, and in both cases the makers accompanied their offers with promises not to mention his name in connection with their product. The cars now are in St. Louis.

CROP RESULTS prove the difference

"ALMOST without exception," says a local merchant, "the farmers in this section who use 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers get successful crops and bank substantial profits." Why? Because, year in year out, even under adverse growing conditions, "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers grow bigger, better, more profitable crops.

Read the letters at the right. Scores of other farmers in this and neighboring counties say the same thing. Larger yields, better quality, earlier maturity, extra profits—obtained with "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers.

Actual crop results prove that there is a decided difference in fertilizers of the same chemical analysis. Chemical analysis does not fully disclose the sources from which the plant-food elements were derived, neither does it indicate the physical condition of the fertilizer—two very important factors affecting the crop-producing power.

"AA QUALITY" Fertilizers produce more profit for every dollar invested in fertilizer because of the infinite care used in selecting the materials from which the plant-food elements are derived, and because these famous formulas are based upon a thorough knowledge of crop and soil conditions. Backed by over 60 years of successful crop production. Any farmer will tell you that "AA QUALITY" goods are famous for their splendid mechanical condition.

Read these letters from successful growers. Then plan to increase your own profits in 1928; insist on getting "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers from your dealer for use on your farm this season.

CAN'T AFFORD TO FARM WITHOUT FERTILIZERS . . . Mr. E. N. Moyer, of Clyde, Sandusky Co., Ohio, says: "I have been using 300 lbs. of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer on my sweet corn for market and find it hastens maturity so that I can get it on the market earlier and command a better price. I also used 500 lbs. per acre on my sugar beets, and find it pays highly. So many farmers say they can't afford to use fertilizer. I for one can't afford to farm without it. Plants are like animals and respond to good feeding. I use plenty of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers on my plants so I can harvest a bounteous crop to feed my animals."—October 10, 1927.

10 TO 15 MORE BUSHELS OF OATS . . . Mr. Earl Fetzer, of Burbank, Wayne Co., Ohio, says: "I used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer for the past five years and like it better every year. Very well pleased the way the oats turned out, and beat some of my neighbors by ten to fifteen bushels per acre."—September 1, 1927.

POTATO YIELD INCREASED FIFTY PER CENT . . . Mr. Arthur Lane, of Marietta, Washington Co., Ohio, says: "By using 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer this year I have grown 50% more potatoes than I did last year on same piece of ground. The potatoes were larger and smoother than any others I ever raised on my farm. I never had any fertilizer give such results. I shall always use your 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer."—October 7, 1927.

GOOD CORN, WHEAT AND CLOVER . . . Mr. Joseph Schneider, of Brookville, Franklin Co., Ind., says: "I have used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers for 16 years, and always have great crops. I can say there could not be any fertilizers any nicer than 'AA QUALITY.' They certainly are good corn, wheat and clover growers. Others who use them speak very highly of them."—November 18,

He wrote all of "We" except a few pages, which were done by Fitzhugh Green, a New Yorker. A "ghost-writer" was proposed by the publisher, but when Lindbergh saw some of the substitute's product, he refused to allow the book issued under his name unless he wrote it himself. The material was set down in large long hand, in ink, on big sheets of paper. The flyer did a few pages every morning, regardless of the press of engagements, but was so careful about the work, rewriting and revising it, that his publishers were afraid the book wouldn't be out in time to be a best-seller.

He didn't write the original "By Lindbergh" dispatches from France, but he did pen those published during his Mexican-Central American tour, sometimes setting them down while he was in flight.

At least one noted aviator refused to fly Lindbergh's plane, "Spirit of St. Louis," because he didn't consider it was safe. Its unusual design made it difficult (for others than Lindy) to fly. There is no direct vision from the pilot's seat, and without a sort of periscope the pilot would be "blind."

When a writer published what Lindbergh regarded as confidential information, the flyer had to be cajoled into changing his mind about cancelling all engagements for the day and going out to give the offender a bit of physical reprimand.

The flyer now has a fortune of over $1,000,000. He has no connection, other than honorary office, with any organization or commercial concern.

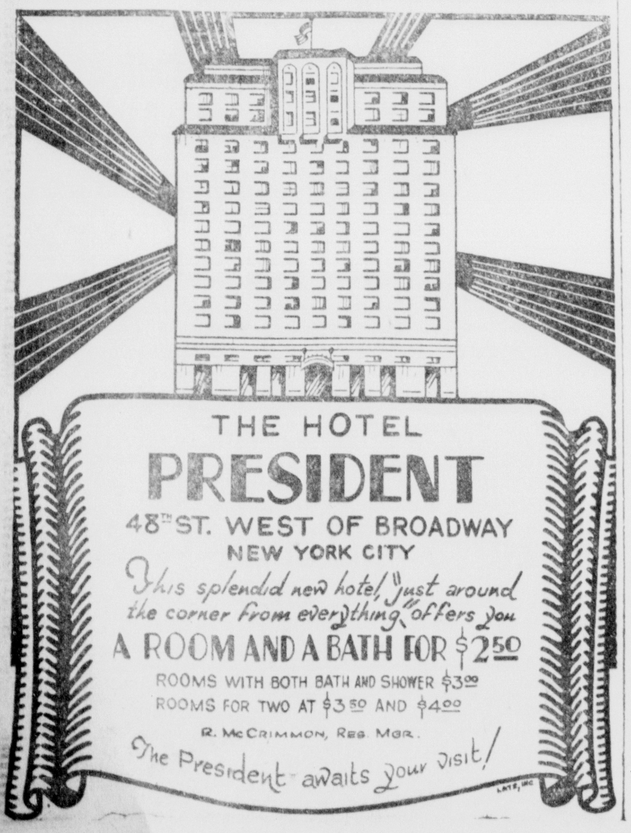

He intends to live in St. Louis for the next year, rest, possibly write and design planes.

Aside from the many decorations and awards, he was made the recipient of many gifts by commercial concerns. The only two of these gifts he accepted were automobiles, and in both cases the makers accompanied their offers with promises not to mention his name in connection with their product. The cars now are in St. Louis.

CROP RESULTS
prove the difference

"ALMOST without exception," says a local merchant, "the farmers in this section who use 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers get successful crops and bank substantial profits." Why? Because, year in year out, even under adverse growing conditions, "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers grow bigger, better, more profitable crops.

Read the letters at the right. Scores of other farmers in this and neighboring counties say the same thing. Larger yields, better quality, earlier maturity, extra profits—obtained with "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers.

Actual crop results prove that there is a decided difference in fertilizers of the same chemical analysis. Chemical analysis does not fully disclose the sources from which the plant-food elements were derived, neither does it indicate the physical condition of the fertilizer—two very important factors affecting the crop-producing power.

"AA QUALITY" Fertilizers produce more profit for every dollar invested in fertilizer because of the infinite care used in selecting the materials from which the plant-food elements are derived, and because these famous formulas are based upon a thorough knowledge of crop and soil conditions. Backed by over 60 years of successful crop production. Any farmer will tell you that "AA QUALITY" goods are famous for their splendid mechanical condition.

Read these letters from successful growers. Then plan to increase your own profits in 1928; insist on getting "AA QUALITY" Fertilizers from your dealer for use on your farm this season.

CAN'T AFFORD TO FARM WITHOUT FERTILIZERS . . . Mr. E. N. Moyer, of Clyde, Sandusky Co., Ohio, says: "I have been using 300 lbs. of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer on my sweet corn for market and find it hastens maturity so that I can get it on the market earlier and command a better price. I also used 500 lbs. per acre on my sugar beets, and find it pays highly. So many farmers say they can't afford to use fertilizer. I for one can't afford to farm without it. Plants are like animals and respond to good feeding. I use plenty of 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers on my plants so I can harvest a bounteous crop to feed my animals."—October 10, 1927.

10 TO 15 MORE BUSHELS OF OATS . . . Mr. Earl Fetzer, of Burbank, Wayne Co., Ohio, says: "I used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer for the past five years and like it better every year. Very well pleased the way the oats turned out, and beat some of my neighbors by ten to fifteen bushels per acre."—September 1, 1927.

POTATO YIELD INCREASED FIFTY PER CENT . . . Mr. Arthur Lane, of Marietta, Washington Co., Ohio, says: "By using 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer this year I have grown 50% more potatoes than I did last year on same piece of ground. The potatoes were larger and smoother than any others I ever raised on my farm. I never had any fertilizer give such results. I shall always use your 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizer."—October 7, 1927.

GOOD CORN, WHEAT AND CLOVER . . . Mr. Joseph Schneider, of Brookville, Franklin Co., Ind., says: "I have used 'AA QUALITY' Fertilizers for 16 years, and always have great crops. I can say there could not be any fertilizers any nicer than 'AA QUALITY.' They certainly are good corn, wheat and clover growers. Others who use them speak very highly of them."—November 18,

GROWTH OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH REPORTED ON

One of the largest attended congregational dinners and business meetings in years, was held at the Presbyterian Church, Market and King Sts., Wednesday evening.

The Ladies Aid Society served a roast beef dinner at 6 o'clock, followed by a business meeting. Reports were heard from all the organizations of the church, which showed substantial increases during the year.

The following officers were re-elected: board of elders for three years, Dr. W. A. Galloway, Mr. H. H. Slagle, and Mr. G. W. Kaiser; board of deacons, Mr. James Wilson III, Mr. Frank McClellan and Mr. G. P. Tiffany. Mr. D. D. Jones was elected treasurer for another term. Mr. Frank L. Smith was elected temporary chairman of the business meeting.

The financial report showed all bills paid and a balance in the treasury. The membership report indicated an increase in the last year. The two missionary societies met their full apportionments to the missionary enterprises of the denomination.

The congregation voted to enter the service pension plan of the church, which gives to aged ministers an earned pension based on the number of years in service of the church. This, according to those in charge, indicates a forward step for the local congregation and puts it in line with the progressive churches of the Presbyterian denomination.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor, opened the meeting with a devotional period, using as the keynote the 133 Psalm which describes and illustrates "goodness," "pleasantness," "prosperity," and "unity" stressed.

Preparatory services will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 p. m., with Friday evening communion at 7:30.

SECOND U. P. SOCIETY HOLDS INTERESTING MEET

With fifty-two members and two guests in attendance, the Missionary Society, Second U. P. Church, met in the church parlors, Wednesday afternoon.

The new officers were installed, except Miss Margaret Moorehead, president, who was detained by illness. The former president, Mrs. J. M. Bull, occupied the chair.

Good reports were given by the officers of the past year and the secretary reported a membership of 128 with an average attendance of fifty-nine.

Again in the different divisions of the work was reported. Devotions were lead by Miss Eleanor Collins, who was assisted by Mrs. Charles Bull, Mrs. Belle Finney, Miss Leila Quinn and Mrs. Kate McDill.

Interesting papers on the study books "The Straight Way Toward Tomorrow" and "New Paths for Old Purposes" were given by Mrs. W. A. McCall, Mrs. Fannie Moore, Mrs. F. H. Routzong and Mrs. James Patterson.

A vocal duet was given by Mrs. Richard McClellan and Mrs. G. R. Hutslar. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Bull was paid tribute for her leadership of the society for two and one-half years with only two absences, when she was out of the city. Earnest gratitude to her and other out-going officers was paid by the society. The meeting closed with prayer.

Miss Karleene Wysong of this city, spent her spring vacation with friends in Selma.

Time of the closing of the three Xenia banks during the Good Friday church services was announced Wednesday as from 12 to 2 instead of at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Clark Poland, W. Third St., and her daugher, Mrs. J. E. Tierney, Sidney, O., who is visiting at the Poland home, have been ill several days with grip. Little Margaret Tierney is recovering from the same malady.

Miss Jean Torrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Findlay Torrence, N. King St., is leaving Thursday night for New York where she will join her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ridgley Torrence. They will sail Friday night on the S. S. "Isle de France" for a six months' sojourn of Europe. The greater part of the time will be spent at Geneva and Vienna.

Six tables have been reserved by members of the Xenia Garden Club, for the card party, sponsored by the Dayton Garden Club, at Runnymede Playhouse, next Monday. The party is for the benefit of the Dayton Rotary Club which is marking the Dixie Highway "memory trail."

The first "open meeting" of the Xenia Garden Club this year will be held next Tuesday night at Central High School. Everyone attending will be given a gladiola bulb and asked to plant it May first, and enter the bloom in the Flower Show planned for during the Home Coming.

American Legion Auxiliary will meet Monday evening at 7:30 at Post Hall. The hostesses will be Mrs. W. A. Labron, Mrs. Guy Toms, Mrs. Isaac Colp, and Miss Helen Dodds.

Mrs. Haines Craig who has been ill for some time is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Liming, Hussey Pike, are the parents of a son, born Thursday.

Mr. Charles Beal, Jamestown, is critically ill with neuralgia of the heart.

Another of the series of Lenten services at First Lutheran Church will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Glade Thomas and daughter, Martha, Elyria, O., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Ridgway, W. Market St., Wednesday.

Mrs. Ella Walker, N. Detroit St., has returned home after a visit of ten days with Mrs. Clem Conklin and Mrs. Roy McKay, Wilmington Pike.

Refreshments will be served after the initiatory work of Rebekah Lodge, Thursday evening. Members are urged to attend.

Mr. Frank P. Smith, 432 N. West St., returned home Tuesday after spending three months in various parts of Florida.

Mr. Louis Buell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Buell and student at the University of Pennsylvania, is home for his spring vacation.

Mrs. Herbert Wheeler and Mary Quinn, who have been employed in the office of John T. Harbine, Jr., have resigned their duties there and their resignations will take effect May 14.

Mr. William Neeld, student at the University of Pennsylvania, is spending his spring vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Neeld.

Miss Audrey Guyton is confined to her home on W. Church St., with an attack of grip.

Miss Mary Kennedy of the city offices is ill at her home on W. Second St., with grip.

Mr. C. L. Jobe has been confined to his home on E. Market St., by illness several days but is recuperating.

Mrs. Chester Preston entertained the women of the Clifton Presbyterian Church at her home Thursday afternoon.

Donald Martin, Atlanta, Ga., arrived in this city Wednesday for a visit with his grandmother, Mrs. G. A. McKay, W. Second St.

Mrs. Clarence Glass, Marion, O., is visiting relatives in Xenia, arriving Wednesday afternoon.

Messrs. W. B. Bryson, J. R. Kimber, O. E. Bradfute, David Bradfute, and W. W. Anderson of the Greene County Farm Bureau, attended the district conference of Warren, Greene, Fayette and Montgomery Counties, at Dayton, Thursday. Mr. Bryson is district director and Mr. O. E. Bradfute was on the program.

Club leaders from over Greene County will meet at the Farm Bureau offices Friday afternoon, to outline plans for the year's work.

Mrs. Floyd Weaver was removed to her home south of Xenia, Monday, following an operation at a local hospital recently.

Eleazer Church will have an Easter program Sunday, beginning at 2 o'clock. A program of recitations, special music and a talk by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Arthur, will be given.

MAYOR'S COURT

BROTHERS ARRESTED

Charged with intoxication, Samuel Hildebrand, 30, and his brother, Daniel, 22, W. Second St., were arrested by Patrolmen J. E. Craig and George Robinson Wednesday night after complaints were received at Police Headquarters that the two men had removed their coats, seated themselves on a sidewalk curb and were annoying passersby by swearing loudly.

Pleading guilty to drunk and disorderly conduct, each was fined $10 and costs by Mayor John W. Prugh Thursday morning.

KILLS FOR WAGES

Charged with shooting to death Walter H. Cook, of Niles, Mich., Miss Marguerite Bumbaugh, 32, of Warsaw, Mich., is in the county jail at St. Joseph, Mich. Police allege Miss Bumbaugh, coming from California, where she was a real estate broker, walked into a fruit basket factory owned by Cook at Niles and demanded $3,300 back wages for being a confidential secretary; upon Cook's refusal, she fired four shots. Miss Bumbaugh, declaring Cook struck at her first with a basket, pleads self defense. Two brothers, Judd and Henry, accompanied her—Judd being held as an accessory.

ANEMIA YIELDS TO LIVER TREATMENT PHYSICIANS TOLD

DR. MARSHALL BEST

"The new use of liver extract in the treatment of pernicious anemia shows the most promise of any treatment," Dr. Marshall Best, Xenia, told the Greene County Medical Society, in a talk on "Pernicious Anemia" at the monthly meeting in the office of the county health commissioner Thursday noon.

Dr. Best's address was enthusiastically received and was followed by spirited discusion by the medical men.

The Greene County Milk Commision met later when Dr. J. O. Stewart, Cedarville, was elected secretary to succeed Dr. H. C. Messenger, who took the place of Dr. R. R. McClellan, as president of the commission when the latter resigned.

The commission is examining milk samples from all over the county, including Osborn and other outlying towns. When the county work is finished Xenia city milk will be tested. The commission reported that the milk has improved, due to the cleaner dairy methods adopted through work of the organization.

Poems that Live

CRADLE SONG

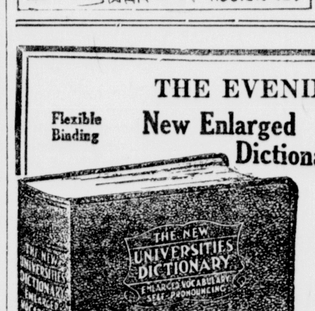

Sleep, sleep, beauty bright,
Dreaming in the joys of night;
Sleep, sleep; in thy sleep
Little sorrows sit and weep.

Sweet babe, in thy face
Soft desires I can trace,
Secret joys and secret smiles,
Little pretty infant wiles.

As thy softest limbs I feel,
Smiles as of the morning steal
O'er thy cheek, and o'er thy breast
Where thy little heart doth rest.

O the coming wiles that creep
In thy little heart asleep!
When thy little heart doth wake,
Then the dreadful night shall break.

William Blake (1757-1827)

NONSENSE

TWO BALLOTS WILL BE MARKED BY VOTERS AT APRIL PRIMARY

Republican and Democratic voters in Greene County will each be handed two ballots at the presidential preference primary election, April 24.

One ballot contains the names of delegates and alternates at large for the two national conventions; delegates and alternates from the Seventh Congressional District to the national conventions; and delegates and alternates from Greene County to the state conventions.

A second ballot permits voters to express their choice for the Republican and Democratic nominations for president and vice-president.

The Republican presidential preference ballot contains the names of Herbert Hoover, the late Senator Frank B. Willis and Olin L. Ross. No candidates appear on the similar Democratic ballot, which is blank, and names must be written in, voting for not more than one candidate.

Names of seven Ohio delegates and alternates at large pledged to Hoover and seven delegates and alternates pledged to the late Senator Willis as first choice candidates, appear on one Republican ballot. Since the death of the Ohio senator, his delegates will go to the national convention uninstructed for first choice.

There are eight delegates at large and eight alternates at large from Ohio to be voted upon on the Democratic ballot.

On the Republican ticket, Harry S. Kissell and Harold W. Houston are the Hoover delegates and Samuel A. Carter and Elmer Junk the Hoover alternates to the national convention from the Seventh Congressional District. They are pledged first choice to Hoover and second choice to J. R. Garfield.

Lemuel Mitch and Forest F. Tipton are the Willis delegates and L. R. Bostwick and H. I. Newton Zearing, the Willis alternates from this district. Mitch, Tipton, and Zearing are pledged second choice to Charles R. Fisher while Bostwick is pledged second choice to Governor Frank O. Lowden. Two delegates and two alternates are to be voted for.

Democratic delegates and alternates from this district to the national convention are pledged first choice to Former Ohio Senator Atlee Pomerene and second choice to George White.

The delegates are Elias Oglesbee and D. C. Houser, Charles P. Dunn and M. D. Barns are the alternates. There are no opposing Democratic delegates and alternates in this district.

Names of ten delegates and ten alternates from Greene County to the Republican state convention also appear on one ballot. Ten are to be voted for.

The delegates are D. A. Reagan, Mrs. C. L. Darlington, Mrs. W. L. Dean, Joseph B. Conklin, E. R. Rockhold, Herbert Fisher, William H. Shields, W. J. Tarbox, Thomas E. Donley and Henry B. Weller.

Following are the alternates: T. J. Smith, W. W. Tate, Mrs. Eula Kennedy, Charles Mendenhall, Harry M. Smith, Russell Spahr, Walter Corry, Thomas Canning, Frank Charles and Vern L. Faires.

MRS. GEORGE HARNER REMOVED BY DEATH

Mrs. Matilda Frances Harner, 83, wife of George Harner, died at her home near Goes at 4:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon following an extended illness.

Mrs. Harner had been in declining health for some time and her conditon became critical two weeks ago. Death was caused by bronchial pneumonia.

She was born at Trebeins January 22, 1845 and always lived in Greene County except for a short time in Missouri and ten years during which she made her home in Clark County.

Mrs. Harner, who was before marriage Miss Matilda Brewer, was married to George Harner December 18, 1866. She was a member of the M. E. Church.

Surviving besides her husband are two children: George A. Harner, Columbus, O., and Mrs. Nancy Hopping, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Malinda May, Dayton, and Mrs. Eleanor Krise, Xenia, four grand children and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Friday. Burial will be made in the Byron Cemetery.

MRS. MARY FEALY DIES ON THURSDAY

Mrs. Mary Maher Fealy, 78, passed away Thursday afternoon at 12:10 o'clock, at her home, 153 Center St., from infirmities of age.

Mrs. Fealy was born in Warren County, April 3, 1849. Her marriage to John Fealy took place November 27, 1875 an dhe preceded her in death December 20, 1918.

She is survived by seven children, Mrs. William McIntosh, Dayton; Mrs. Harvey Williams, Cincinnati; Mrs. Michael Rachford, Xenia; Mrs. T. A. Van Pelt, Dayton; Edward Fealy, Springfield; William Fealy, Xenia and Joseph Fealy, at home.

Nineteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Doris' Baby in West

While Doris Palmer McDonald, widow of George McDonald, who was hanged in Valleyfield, Quebec, jail for the murder of a Montreal taxi driver, has begun serving a life sentence for complicity in the crime in the Kingston, Ont., penitentiary, her son, Kenneth Allen, two years old, above, is being reared by his foster grandmother, Dr. Frances Palmer, at Oklahoma City, Okla. Friends and relatives, according to Dr. Palmer, still hope to bring about Doris' release.

Anderson of the Greene County Farm Bureau, attended the district conference of Warren, Greene, Fayette and Montgomery Counties, at Dayton, Thursday. Mr. Bryson is district director and Mr. O. E. Bradfute was on the program.

Club leaders from over Greene County will meet at the Farm Bureau offices Friday afternoon, to outline plans for the year's work.

Mrs. Floyd Weaver was removed to her home south of Xenia, Monday, following an operation at a local hospital recently.

Eleazer Church will have an Easter program Sunday, beginning at 2 o'clock. A program of recitations, special music and a talk by the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Arthur, will be given.

MAYOR'S COURT

BROTHERS ARRESTED

Charged with intoxication, Samuel Hildebrand, 30, and his brother, Daniel, 22, W. Second St., were arrested by Patrolmen J. E. Craig and George Robinson Wednesday night after complaints were received at Police Headquarters that the two men had removed their coats, seated themselves on a sidewalk curb and were annoying passersby by swearing loudly.

Pleading guilty to drunk and disorderly conduct, each was fined $10 and costs by Mayor John W. Prugh Thursday morning.

KILLS FOR WAGES

Charged with shooting to death Walter H. Cook, of Niles, Mich., Miss Marguerite Bumbaugh, 32, of Warsaw, Mich., is in the county jail at St. Joseph, Mich. Police allege Miss Bumbaugh, coming from California, where she was a real estate broker, walked into a fruit basket factory owned by Cook at Niles and demanded $3,300 back wages for being a confidential secretary; upon Cook's refusal, she fired four shots. Miss Bumbaugh, declaring Cook struck at her first with a basket, pleads self defense. Two brothers, Judd and Henry, accompanied her—Judd being held as an accessory.

ANEMIA YIELDS TO LIVER TREATMENT PHYSICIANS TOLD

DR. MARSHALL BEST

"The new use of liver extract in the treatment of pernicious anemia shows the most promise of any treatment," Dr. Marshall Best, Xenia, told the Greene County Medical Society, in a talk on "Pernicious Anemia" at the monthly meeting in the office of the county health commissioner Thursday noon.

Dr. Best's address was enthusiastically received and was followed by spirited discusion by the medical men.

The Greene County Milk Commision met later when Dr. J. O. Stewart, Cedarville, was elected secretary to succeed Dr. H. C. Messenger, who took the place of Dr. R. R. McClellan, as president of the commission when the latter resigned.

The commission is examining milk samples from all over the county, including Osborn and other outlying towns. When the county work is finished Xenia city milk will be tested. The commission reported that the milk has improved, due to the cleaner dairy methods adopted through work of the organization.

Poems that Live

CRADLE SONG

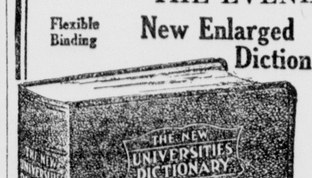

Sleep, sleep, beauty bright,
Dreaming in the joys of night;
Sleep, sleep; in thy sleep
Little sorrows sit and weep.

Sweet babe, in thy face
Soft desires I can trace,
Secret joys and secret smiles,
Little pretty infant wiles.

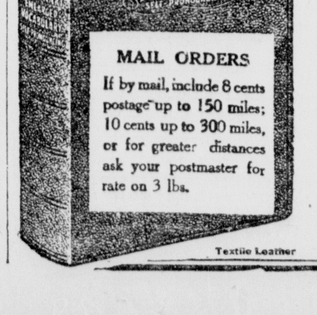

As thy softest limbs I feel,
Smiles as of the morning steal
O'er thy cheek, and o'er thy breast
Where thy little heart doth rest.

O the coming wiles that creep
In thy little heart asleep!
When thy little heart doth wake,
Then the dreadful night shall break.

William Blake (1757-1827)

NONSENSE

TWO BALLOTS WILL BE MARKED BY VOTERS AT APRIL PRIMARY

Republican and Democratic voters in Greene County will each be handed two ballots at the presidential preference primary election, April 24.

One ballot contains the names of delegates and alternates at large for the two national conventions; delegates and alternates from the Seventh Congressional District to the national conventions; and delegates and alternates from Greene County to the state conventions.

A second ballot permits voters to express their choice for the Republican and Democratic nominations for president and vice-president.

The Republican presidential preference ballot contains the names of Herbert Hoover, the late Senator Frank B. Willis and Olin L. Ross. No candidates appear on the similar Democratic ballot, which is blank, and names must be written in, voting for not more than one candidate.

Names of seven Ohio delegates and alternates at large pledged to Hoover and seven delegates and alternates pledged to the late Senator Willis as first choice candidates, appear on one Republican ballot. Since the death of the Ohio senator, his delegates will go to the national convention uninstructed for first choice.

There are eight delegates at large and eight alternates at large from Ohio to be voted upon on the Democratic ballot.

On the Republican ticket, Harry S. Kissell and Harold W. Houston are the Hoover delegates and Samuel A. Carter and Elmer Junk the Hoover alternates to the national convention from the Seventh Congressional District. They are pledged first choice to Hoover and second choice to J. R. Garfield.

Lemuel Mitch and Forest F. Tipton are the Willis delegates and L. R. Bostwick and H. I. Newton Zearing, the Willis alternates from this district. Mitch, Tipton, and Zearing are pledged second choice to Charles R. Fisher while Bostwick is pledged second choice to Governor Frank O. Lowden. Two delegates and two alternates are to be voted for.

Democratic delegates and alternates from this district to the national convention are pledged first choice to Former Ohio Senator Atlee Pomerene and second choice to George White.

The delegates are Elias Oglesbee and D. C. Houser, Charles P. Dunn and M. D. Barns are the alternates. There are no opposing Democratic delegates and alternates in this district.

Names of ten delegates and ten alternates from Greene County to the Republican state convention also appear on one ballot. Ten are to be voted for.

The delegates are D. A. Reagan, Mrs. C. L. Darlington, Mrs. W. L. Dean, Joseph B. Conklin, E. R. Rockhold, Herbert Fisher, William H. Shields, W. J. Tarbox, Thomas E. Donley and Henry B. Weller.

Following are the alternates: T. J. Smith, W. W. Tate, Mrs. Eula Kennedy, Charles Mendenhall, Harry M. Smith, Russell Spahr, Walter Corry, Thomas Canning, Frank Charles and Vern L. Faires.

MRS. GEORGE HARNER REMOVED BY DEATH

Mrs. Matilda Frances Harner, 83, wife of George Harner, died at her home near Goes at 4:45 o'clock Wednesday afternoon following an extended illness.

Mrs. Harner had been in declining health for some time and her conditon became critical two weeks ago. Death was caused by bronchial pneumonia.

She was born at Trebeins January 22, 1845 and always lived in Greene County except for a short time in Missouri and ten years during which she made her home in Clark County.

Mrs. Harner, who was before marriage Miss Matilda Brewer, was married to George Harner December 18, 1866. She was a member of the M. E. Church.

Surviving besides her husband are two children: George A. Harner, Columbus, O., and Mrs. Nancy Hopping, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Malinda May, Dayton, and Mrs. Eleanor Krise, Xenia, four grand children and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m. Friday. Burial will be made in the Byron Cemetery.

MRS. MARY FEALY DIES ON THURSDAY

Mrs. Mary Maher Fealy, 78, passed away Thursday afternoon at 12:10 o'clock, at her home, 153 Center St., from infirmities of age.

Mrs. Fealy was born in Warren County, April 3, 1849. Her marriage to John Fealy took place November 27, 1875 an dhe preceded her in death December 20, 1918.

She is survived by seven children, Mrs. William McIntosh, Dayton; Mrs. Harvey Williams, Cincinnati; Mrs. Michael Rachford, Xenia; Mrs. T. A. Van Pelt, Dayton; Edward Fealy, Springfield; William Fealy, Xenia and Joseph Fealy, at home.

Nineteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Doris' Baby in West

While Doris Palmer McDonald, widow of George McDonald, who was hanged in Valleyfield, Quebec, jail for the murder of a Montreal taxi driver, has begun serving a life sentence for complicity in the crime in the Kingston, Ont., penitentiary, her son, Kenneth Allen, two years old, above, is being reared by his foster grandmother, Dr. Frances Palmer, at Oklahoma City, Okla. Friends and relatives, according to Dr. Palmer, still hope to bring about Doris' release.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PATHS OF PEACE—Length of days is in wisdom's right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour. Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace.—Prov. 3:16, 17.

CONGRESSMEN HAVE REAL JOBS

Congressional observers have repeatedly divided members of both branches into three classes, and amused themselves guessing the group new members would choose as a beacon to guide their own career in congress.

Some choose the life of the floor, like Pat Harrison, or Smoot, watch-dog of the treasury when appropriation bills are up, or Borah in the give-and-take debate. Others stick to committee work, perhaps ultimately to earn reputations for studious application to special problems.

There is still a third type—the one who is seldom seen on the floor, avoids committee rooms like the plague, and spends most of his time shaking hands with constituents or doing their errands for them in the federal departments. "Do a good turn daily" is the motto of this school. Jobs must be found for the faithful; those of the faithful already holding down jobs must not be disturbed in their tenure by too ruthless efficiency. The burden of this sort of thing falls much more heavily on senators and representatives from the populous and nearby eastern states. The senator from Nevada can take all his visiting constituents to lunch with him in the senate restaurant, but if the senator from New York or Pennsylvania tried that there would be no room for his colleagues.

Congressmen consider it their duty to grant the petty favors asked of them by their constituents which is reason enough why individuals should not monopolize the limited time of men whose first duty is to the nation. Considering the outside demands on the time of its members it is surprising that congress ever accomplishes anything.

MOST DIFFICULT JOB

President Coolidge again has discouraged attempts to draft him for the presidential job again. While some say that he has not irrevocably withdrawn yet it seems clear that he does not want to serve again.

The leading men of the country strive and strain for this highest honor and for some the thought of it becomes a consuming passion. Yet when these men are chosen they are usually glad to get out of it after a few years. It is a most exalted honor, yet the strain is so terrific that few presidents ever had any desire for a third term.

The argument has been raised that a new universal language should be created for radio broadcasting, in addition to static.

The assertion is made that there is now a lack of family discipline, but anyway many children maintain a firm control over their parents.

Colonel Lindbergh is supposed to have retired from the footlight, but plenty are willing to take his place.

Some politicians put their ears to the ground and others get their noses into the dirt.

The Way of the World

STYLES

Who sets the fashion? Is it the movie queen, the Prince of Wales, the boy on the campus, or King Tut's tomb? When the tomb was opened, and the long dead monarch got so much publicity, there was a new flair for things Egyptian. Style experts, meeting in recent convention, fail to agree in fixing the responsibility for setting fashons. History shows, apparently, that personages of position and power, have had the most to do with it through the ages. The unattractive legs of a king brought on long trousers. The history of our clothes is largely the history of the whims of the great.

DECEIVING OURSELVES

It is very easy to deceive ourselves, and we are forever doing it. It was Demosthenes, the old Greek, who said that our affections are subtle persuaders. It is dangerously easy to convince ourselves that the thing that really ought to be done. It takes a peculiar honesty and an unusual quality of fairness and judgment to stand apart from the affairs in which we are affectionately interested and make a wise and perfectly cold decision. The man who can do that has brains which are bound to serve him well. The man who has the courage not to fool himself can be trusted not to fool anybody.

COMMUNISM

Russia may or may not have a good government. That appears to depend upon the mood and point of view of the observer. We can be sure, however, that we need have no fear of communism. Communism doesn't work—even in Russia. There can be no success in government without efficient leadership, and communism does not provide for effective leadership. The government of Russia, no longer communistic, appear to be in strong hands. Whether the people will be well served depends on the moral principle behind those strong hands. In the final analysis the success of every government, of whatever form, depends on the consecration to duty of a few people.

THE HABIT OF HAPPINESS

We, too, little realize how much our contentment and peace of mind depend upon our own determination, our own deliberate effort of the will. Most of the miserable, unhappy people you know are those who sit down and cry, those who quit, those who refuse to make the deliberate effort to adjust themselves to the conditions of life. When you make up your mind firmly not to be miserable you have taken the first long step toward eliminating misery from your life. The courage to make a deliberate effort of the will is the thing we need, principally, to bring us into a state of contentment.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 5.—Roger Wolfe Kahn isn't the only millionaire who glories in the spotlight that plays upon leaders of popular and successful jazz orchestras. Carroll Cooney, vice president of a big lumber company, and once a famous Yale football star, maintains a dance band as a hobby, usually conducting it himself. He plays saxophone ,mandolin and violin solos. The orchestra is in demand at Park avenue functions.

Young Kahn no longer has an orchestra of his own, but is devoting himself to composing. He did the score of a new musical show.

Incidentally, Cole Porter, composer of two current song hits, is so rich that George Jean Nathan speaks to him in the street.

When spring inoculates the the air, I am irresistibly drawn to the gypsy camp that is established each year in the far reaches of Brooklyn. Members of tribes gather from individual or family hibernations to feast and frivol and take council before scattering in caravans upon Romany roads. The tenting place usually is around New Lots and Rockaway avenues. There one finds but little of the romantic glamour that usually is associated with these supposedly happy-go-lucky people. The men wear comparatively modern dress and are odorous with pomade and perfume. Older women still wear gay and gaudy clothes, with skirts sweeping the mud, but girls have bobbed hair, shorter skirts and brown faces pasted with powder and rouge.

Fewer of the wanderers are horse traders now. The women, as fortune tellers, are chief sources of revenue on the road. Some money obtained from sale of trinkets, from auto trading, and from real estate deals. One tribe owns land in Florida and Cuba.

Times are changing rapidly for the Romany folk. Industry is absorbing the men, lured by high wages. The cities are swallowing the girls, in rebellion against the old practice of selling them into marriage. The gypsy now has to share the countryside with thousands of motorists. He feels free in the United States no longer. That is why so many of his brothers now are to be found in South America.

Flo Ziegfeld believes in the efficacy of "luck pieces" and is never without a treasured jade charm when one of his productions has a premiere. Another charm is a baby boot of his daughter, Patricia, which he is wont to tote in a back pocket when one of his shows opens. But he forgot to carry the boot the night "Show Boat" began on Broadway. It's one of the biggest musical hits. And he did carry the boot the night the last "Follies" opened. It folded up recently, a $250,000 loser, because Eddie Cantor, its star, became ill.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

DO YOU TALK ON THE RIGHT TOPICS?

Years ago, when I was a young reporter doing police news, a big fat policeman named Jim Williams was one of the best news sources in town. It seemed as if more strange things occurred on his beat than anywhere else. All of us who were obliged to write of fires, accidents, burglaries and killings, tried to cultivate Jim Williams, to ingratiate ourselves in his favor. But none of could by so many profitable tips from Williams as a reporter on one of the morning papers named George McFarland.

Nearly every day McFarland had at least one exclusive piece of news, and usually it seemed to be traceable to Jim Williams.

It was bad enough to be beaten on these news stories, but it was particularly irritating to have to trail behind McFarland, for he was in many respects the poorest reporter in town. He had scarcely any education; moreover he drank some, was unkempt in appearance, and did not look like a representative of a great daily organ of enlightenment. I doubt if he could have constructed a grammatical sentence. He collected his facts and telephoned them to his office to be written. But he obtained facts that the rest of us overlooked—largely because of his ability to maintain the respent and esteem of Jim Williams, the policeman.

"It's this way," somebody suggested one night, as a disgruntled quartet of us sat in the reporter's room at the central police station. "Williams is a stolid sort of cop, of not very high mentality. He lives on about the same intellectual plane as McFarland does. Naturally they have a good deal in common."

That set me to thinking. I made up my mind to rope in with policeman Williams on some basis of amity and equality which would lead to a free exchange of ideas and knowledge. I sat and tried to think what I would enjoy talking about if I were a policeman forty-two years old and weighing two hundred and forty-seven pounds. Obviously, he would probably care little about Chaucer, dramatic sequence, the binomial theorem, or the nebular hypothesis. I would have to get down to some of the elemental things of life. Well, I went out and tried him on a number of topics, which included: baseball, politics, horses, prize-fighting and physical culture. The only good response I got—the only positive reaction, as they say in scientific circles—was from the latter topic—physical culture, or how to keep one's self in the pink of physical condition. Williams was a trifle vain about his physique and gloried in his strength. Yet I found that I was still a trifle shy of hitting the nail right on the head. I felt certain I was getting warm, as the saying is, but there was something else that Williams would rather talk about than his physical prowess. Quite by accident I stumbled upon it. From physical culture we went by easy stages to diet — diet, food and cooking. There at last was Jim William's keynote. Food! Things to eat!

When you pause to consider it, this fad was not surprising. Here was a big, able-bodied man who was obliged to tramp about the streets all day with scant opportunity for mental stimulus, but all the time working up a fiendish appetite. Naturally, he was able to consume large quantities of food, and he tried various kinds. He liked food that was well prepared, and came to regard himself as something of an epicure. Food was his hobby. After I found this out, Williams and I used to stand on street corners discussing food and culinary processes for an hour at a time. His favorite proposition for friendly debate whether stewed chicken is better than fried chicken. I always spoke in behalf of fried chicken, and he was firm in his advocacy of having his chicken stewed. Before leaving him, however, I always conceded that perhaps he was rght. No matter how often we held this discussion, the policeman was always eager to take it up again. He was like a child who never tires of the same little bedtime stories over and over again.

Without knowing it at the time, I was learning salesmanship. I could have sold Jim Williams from a gold brick to a threshing machine.

"AIN'T NATURE GRAND!"

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HOW TO WALK RHYTHMICALLY

If rythmic walking were extensively cultivated in this country, ungraceful poses, bad posture and physical awkwardness would rapidly become extinct. When I was young, I had my first lessons in perfect walking. Lessons which have been priceless in the years that have passed since then. Lessons that have conserved my energy, that have protected my leg muscles from strain and ache so many women experience.

Easy walking is always a pretty thing to watch. Poets and authors have raved over the graceful, easy stride of European peasant women. The natives of the Far East carry themselves with regal beauty—their heads high, their bodies musically, rhythmically in time.

First let me give you a few general hints. Don't strive for a springy walk. I know of no expression so badly abused. The average woman who cultivates "springiness" usually achieves an awkward, nerve-racking bounce! She makes bad time, and covers half the ground with twice the energy expended! Forget the "spring" and try to develop a wide, free swing; a long, even stride.

The first exercise — a basic one, which I will add to later, is the Pendulum swing.

Assume the correct starting position . You know it. Head up, shoulders straight, legs close together, toes pointing very very little outward. Hands on hips. Your leg is to swing in a complete a circle as you can achieve without bending the knee or working any but the hip muscles. Stretch the ankle, using the toe almost as a pointer, and being sure it clears the floor by at least a few inches. I know I have recommended this before for reducing the hips. Sometimes to stand on a book or low box facilitates the movement. Twist the waist so as to give the foot the necessary impetus to swing wide. Reverse, using the alternate foot.

While we are on the subject of walking, remember that an excellent beauty habit is to hum or to whistle to yourself while you walk. I don't have to declaim against tight skirts — they don't exist any more—but I can give you one hint. If you have been binding your own movements by the use of tight side garters, substitute round ones. You will soon learn a new liberty of motion. Another thing is to learn to breathe deeply and evenly to the beats of your footsteps.

Walking gracefully is a wonderful thing to learn. Ziegfeld spends weeks teaching it to his yearly recruits. And the girl who has traveled too far from her natural heritage of graceful motion to learn rapidly is disqualified, no matter how beautiful she may be in face or body. American women, I am sorry to admit, are not as graceful or smooth in movements as they should be.

Begin to teach yourself a correct rhythmic walk. It is a good foundation on which to build physical charm.

Diet and Health

Dangers of Boric Acid

Boric, or boracic, acid (the same), and borax are such common household antiseptics that there is need for a warning that if taken internally, or absorbed through the skin or mucous membranes in too great concentration, over too long a period of time, they are poisonous.

Both boric acid and borax have the same foundation—boron—but the boric acid, as its name implies is an acid, and so contains hydrogen, and borax is an alkali containing sodium, the technical name being sodium borate.

Boric acid is a dangerous food preservative and its use has long been forbidden for such purposes in the United States, France, Germany, Holland, Italy and Spain, and recently in Great Britain. Milk that has been preserved with boric acid has resulted in serious bowel disorders in babies.

McNally and Rust, i na recent article in the Journal of the American Medical association, report the death of six babies from the accidental giving of boric acid solution for distilled water. Also the death of an adult who mistook boric acid for a saline laxative.

So keep your borice acid and borax solutions for your antiseptics, for they are good antiseptics, but tie a little bell on the bottle so you will know that they are poisonous if taken internally, and keep them out of the reach of children.

Every household should lay in a supply of tiny bells to tie on all bottles and any other receptacles that contain poisons They will automotically warn the absentminded and the nearsighted of their danger.

Mineral Foods in Tablet Form?

B. writes: "Dear Doctor Lulu: All farmers feed minerals to their hogs. I have found a mineral food in tablet form for people. It sounds good to me. I'm not an agent for it and have no interest whatever in the cash value of it, but if it is what is claimed, I think These tablets come in two forms: it is what everyone should eat. the tablet marked "M" is a builder, and the one marked "K" is an eliminator. I am supposed to take that they contain all of the minerals of the body. It is not a medicine but a food. I am sending you some of the tablets and want to know if they really contain the minerals needed by the body and if they contain any harmful drug. I do not want any of this letter published in any paper."

Dear B.—which isn't your initial —I'm sorry to disregard your wish about publishing this letter, but as it is not a personal one and as it contains material which is of general interest, I am doing so. Not, however, to extol the value of the product, but to expose the fallacy of getting food minerals in tablet form.

I don't know about the feeding of hogs—the kind you refer to, B, but with the exception of salt (sodium chloride), human animals have to get their minerals in the organic form — that is, as they come in the natural foods, not in the inorganic form as they are found in the earth, etc. Even in the case of secondary anemia, where iron is given, it never has been wholly settled whether it is absorbed or not, and always instructions are given to get plenty of foods containing iron, for when these are taken, the inorganic iron does seem in many cases to be of some aid.

Save your money, B., and use it for good food that contains mineral elements. Taken in tablet or other forms, they may do much harm. It would be just like taking drugs without the supervision of a physician. You'll forgive me for running your letter now that you know the harm such products can do

I do not analyze any products, B. You would have to take them to a chemical laboratory for that. Certain products are analyzed free of charge by the Boards of Health and in the laboratory of the American Medical association, if they are of general use and are under suspicion.

I think you had better send for our article on Balanced Diet, B. It requires a self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASINGTON, April 5. —Who cares —If Washington does smell like a glue factory of graft.

The "pee-pul"

The smell of oil scandals was perfectly awful four years ago, and the pee-pul's only response to 'em then was to give a tighter grip on the country to the party of the "ins" than they'd had before.

This year there's a mixture of smells—

The old oil scandal smell! — somewhat intensified. A new, campaign contribution scandal smell! — not a bit modified by the knowledge that men high in the national administration's confidence have smelled it for several years, and only held their noses, pretending they didn't smell a thing. A whiff of contempt!

Will this blend have any more effect on the electorate than the original smell of oil scandals, straight, had in 1924?

Without going so far as to make any confidential predictions, politicians on both sides think perhaps it will.

Why? Because the smell's getting worse than the public can stand?

Oh, my!—no.

The explanation is that the party of the "ins" killed the oil scandal smell, in 1924, with prosperity scent.

Today the "ins' " supply of this delicious prosperity perfume isn't quite equal to what it was four years ago—not quite so much of it, and not quite so strong.

In other words, the 1928 national campaign doesn't open in the midst of the same hilariously flush times as the campaign of 1924.

Briefly, if next November, by any chance, shall see the party of the "ins" voted out and the party of the "outs" voted in, the best authorities won't consider that the oil and allied scandals, in reality, have had much to do with it, but simply that they furnished the excuse.

The issue, as these cynics view it, is solely one of a little more or less prosperity.

Taking it one way, it isn't a very nice light in which to regard the voters—it makes 'em appear pretty hard boiled. In another way, it isn't a very nice light in which to regard the two big parties—obviously enough, the electroate sizes them up as pretty much the same thing.

Neutrals put this thought plainly into words.

The other day I was talking with Pete Witt, the redoubtable Cleveland radical—as I don't believe he minds being called—and old-time lieutenant of the late Tom L Johnson.

"The Republicans," said Pete, "regret the oil scandals—because they've been found out. The Democrats rejoice in them — because they hope they'll help THEM. The Republicans honestly regretful! The Democrats honestly shocked! Pooh!"

Senator Nye, chairman of the oil investigating committee, is equally contemptuous of the distinction between the "ins" and "outs"—he can see "little difference between the two major parties"—"both take all they can get"—"if the 'ins' get more than the 'outs,' it's because they generally are in a position to give handsomer returns."

The voters of the present era undoubtedly are middling obtuse.

But suppose they weren't. Suppose they had principles that they genuinely wanted to vote FOR. As Between the two big parties, what choice have they got?

For popular consumption, politicians talk next to nothing else but bunk. Confidentally, among them, it's a common place that Americ lower ebb than it is today. Whether can public spirit never was at a er the current brand of politics makes it so, or whether the lack of national ideals is responsible for the melancholy state of existing politics, is anybody's guess.

TRIGGER TEMPERS

Isn't it a pity that people keep their tempers like the trigger of a pistol? One slight touch—intentional or not—and off they go making a big noise and causing any amount of heartache. Friendships that might yeild pleasure are smashed to smithereens, and all for nothing.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I have liked a fellow for about three years. He lives out of town. I am sure he likes me very well, and I did him until a year ago. Ever since then we seemed to quarrel so much, not when we were together, but through our letters. But we would make up. It ended when I heard, through a girl friehd, that she heard that he didn't care for me any more. I told him just what I had heard and asked if it were true, and bawled him out good and plenty. Well, he wrote and told me plenty. That has been five months ago and I have never heard a word from him since. And how I am going to a wedding in the town where he lives and I am sure he is to be there. What shall I do? Should I talk first, or wait until he does? I am sure you can help me.

"BLUE EYES."

Regardless of whose fault it was that you quarreled so much, I think if I were you, if the chance offered, I would go up to him, shake hands and say you are sorry you wrote that cross letter. Then you will have done your share, and if he wants to be friends he can do his part.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

AN APRIL FOOL TRICK

Peter sat down upon a stone and listened eagerly to the tale that Mrs. Oven Bird was telling.

"Once upon a time," began she "just how long ago nobody knows, all the birds met on one fine day to choose a king. For a long while they argued among themselves what a bird must be able to do to prove that he was worthy to be the ruler of Birddom.

"One said that he must be the strongest, another declared that he must wear the handsomest coat, a third suggested he must be the mightiest of warriors. Not one of these suggestions suited everybody. And at last the birds hit upon the plan of electing as their king the bird who could fly the highest.

"So up in the heavens soared the birds and flew as far toward the sun as their wings would carry them. One by one they grew tired and dropped back to earth. The Eagle alone rose higher and higher until he, too, became weary at last and stopped in his upward flight unable to go a wing's length farther. But he sailed alone in the clouds. Looking down at the birds far beneath him in a loud voice he proclaimed himself their king.

"He spoke too soon. At the very second when he found he could make his weary wings bear him no farther a bird so tiny that to the watchers he appeared little more than a speck sprang up in the air and flew up, and up, and up high above the head of the floating Eagle.

"It was Wren, and when he had seen him re returned to earth had seeh him he returned to earth and proclaimed himself their king. He had hidden himself among the feathers on the back of the Eagle when nobody had been looking and so mounted had been carried into the skies When Wren's sted was tired he was able to take up the flight, for his own wings were unwearied. Even Eagle himself, angry as he was, admitted that he with his great strength had been defeated by the clever wits of the tiny Wren."

Peter laughed ahd clapped his hands.

"That was a bully good story" cried he. "But of course, that was only an April Fool's trick that Wren played upon Eagle. Surely Eagle really won the election—he did what the birds demanded and did it fairly and squarely. Wren won by cheating so of course nobody could take him seriously. He probably meant it for a joke on the mighty flyer. Ha! ha! I shall have to ask my friend Johnny Wren what he thinks about it. I don't believe that he imagines he is kihg, for a moment."

A TINY BIRD SPRANG INTO THE AIR AND FLEW HIGH ABOVE THE HEAD OF THE EAGLE

"If course Johnny Wren does not. I have told wifie time and again. It is perfectly silly for her to keep on insisting that he is king. Eagle would be furious if ever he heard her."

"Silly am I!" screamed his wife. "Silly! Well I'll have you know that I am a great deal smarter bird than you are. Who are you, I'd like to know! All my family were furious when I married you."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE PATHS OF PEACE—Length of days is in wisdom's right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour. Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace.—Prov. 3:16, 17.

CONGRESSMEN HAVE REAL JOBS

Congressional observers have repeatedly divided members of both branches into three classes, and amused themselves guessing the group new members would choose as a beacon to guide their own career in congress.

Some choose the life of the floor, like Pat Harrison, or Smoot, watch-dog of the treasury when appropriation bills are up, or Borah in the give-and-take debate. Others stick to committee work, perhaps ultimately to earn reputations for studious application to special problems.

There is still a third type—the one who is seldom seen on the floor, avoids committee rooms like the plague, and spends most of his time shaking hands with constituents or doing their errands for them in the federal departments. "Do a good turn daily" is the motto of this school. Jobs must be found for the faithful; those of the faithful already holding down jobs must not be disturbed in their tenure by too ruthless efficiency. The burden of this sort of thing falls much more heavily on senators and representatives from the populous and nearby eastern states. The senator from Nevada can take all his visiting constituents to lunch with him in the senate restaurant, but if the senator from New York or Pennsylvania tried that there would be no room for his colleagues.

Congressmen consider it their duty to grant the petty favors asked of them by their constituents which is reason enough why individuals should not monopolize the limited time of men whose first duty is to the nation. Considering the outside demands on the time of its members it is surprising that congress ever accomplishes anything.

MOST DIFFICULT JOB

President Coolidge again has discouraged attempts to draft him for the presidential job again. While some say that he has not irrevocably withdrawn yet it seems clear that he does not want to serve again.

The leading men of the country strive and strain for this highest honor and for some the thought of it becomes a consuming passion. Yet when these men are chosen they are usually glad to get out of it after a few years. It is a most exalted honor, yet the strain is so terrific that few presidents ever had any desire for a third term.

The argument has been raised that a new universal language should be created for radio broadcasting, in addition to static.

The assertion is made that there is now a lack of family discipline, but anyway many children maintain a firm control over their parents.

Colonel Lindbergh is supposed to have retired from the footlight, but plenty are willing to take his place.

Some politicians put their ears to the ground and others get their noses into the dirt.

STYLES

Who sets the fashion? Is it the movie queen, the Prince of Wales, the boy on the campus, or King Tut's tomb? When the tomb was opened, and the long dead monarch got so much publicity, there was a new flair for things Egyptian. Style experts, meeting in recent convention, fail to agree in fixing the responsibility for setting fashons. History shows, apparently, that personages of position and power, have had the most to do with it through the ages. The unattractive legs of a king brought on long trousers. The history of our clothes is largely the history of the whims of the great.

DECEIVING OURSELVES

It is very easy to deceive ourselves, and we are forever doing it. It was Demosthenes, the old Greek, who said that our affections are subtle persuaders. It is dangerously easy to convince ourselves that the thing that really ought to be done. It takes a peculiar honesty and an unusual quality of fairness and judgment to stand apart from the affairs in which we are affectionately interested and make a wise and perfectly cold decision. The man who can do that has brains which are bound to serve him well. The man who has the courage not to fool himself can be trusted not to fool anybody.

COMMUNISM

Russia may or may not have a good government. That appears to depend upon the mood and point of view of the observer. We can be sure, however, that we need have no fear of communism. Communism doesn't work—even in Russia. There can be no success in government without efficient leadership, and communism does not provide for effective leadership. The government of Russia, no longer communistic, appear to be in strong hands. Whether the people will be well served depends on the moral principle behind those strong hands. In the final analysis the success of every government, of whatever form, depends on the consecration to duty of a few people.

THE HABIT OF HAPPINESS

We, too, little realize how much our contentment and peace of mind depend upon our own determination, our own deliberate effort of the will. Most of the miserable, unhappy people you know are those who sit down and cry, those who quit, those who refuse to make the deliberate effort to adjust themselves to the conditions of life. When you make up your mind firmly not to be miserable you have taken the first long step toward eliminating misery from your life. The courage to make a deliberate effort of the will is the thing we need, principally, to bring us into a state of contentment.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 5.—Roger Wolfe Kahn isn't the only millionaire who glories in the spotlight that plays upon leaders of popular and successful jazz orchestras. Carroll Cooney, vice president of a big lumber company, and once a famous Yale football star, maintains a dance band as a hobby, usually conducting it himself. He plays saxophone ,mandolin and violin solos. The orchestra is in demand at Park avenue functions.

Young Kahn no longer has an orchestra of his own, but is devoting himself to composing. He did the score of a new musical show.

Incidentally, Cole Porter, composer of two current song hits, is so rich that George Jean Nathan speaks to him in the street.

When spring inoculates the the air, I am irresistibly drawn to the gypsy camp that is established each year in the far reaches of Brooklyn. Members of tribes gather from individual or family hibernations to feast and frivol and take council before scattering in caravans upon Romany roads. The tenting place usually is around New Lots and Rockaway avenues. There one finds but little of the romantic glamour that usually is associated with these supposedly happy-go-lucky people. The men wear comparatively modern dress and are odorous with pomade and perfume. Older women still wear gay and gaudy clothes, with skirts sweeping the mud, but girls have bobbed hair, shorter skirts and brown faces pasted with powder and rouge.

Fewer of the wanderers are horse traders now. The women, as fortune tellers, are chief sources of revenue on the road. Some money obtained from sale of trinkets, from auto trading, and from real estate deals. One tribe owns land in Florida and Cuba.

Times are changing rapidly for the Romany folk. Industry is absorbing the men, lured by high wages. The cities are swallowing the girls, in rebellion against the old practice of selling them into marriage. The gypsy now has to share the countryside with thousands of motorists. He feels free in the United States no longer. That is why so many of his brothers now are to be found in South America.

Flo Ziegfeld believes in the efficacy of "luck pieces" and is never without a treasured jade charm when one of his productions has a premiere. Another charm is a baby boot of his daughter, Patricia, which he is wont to tote in a back pocket when one of his shows opens. But he forgot to carry the boot the night "Show Boat" began on Broadway. It's one of the biggest musical hits. And he did carry the boot the night the last "Follies" opened. It folded up recently, a $250,000 loser, because Eddie Cantor, its star, became ill.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

DO YOU TALK ON THE RIGHT TOPICS?

Years ago, when I was a young reporter doing police news, a big fat policeman named Jim Williams was one of the best news sources in town. It seemed as if more strange things occurred on his beat than anywhere else. All of us who were obliged to write of fires, accidents, burglaries and killings, tried to cultivate Jim Williams, to ingratiate ourselves in his favor. But none of could by so many profitable tips from Williams as a reporter on one of the morning papers named George McFarland.

Nearly every day McFarland had at least one exclusive piece of news, and usually it seemed to be traceable to Jim Williams.

It was bad enough to be beaten on these news stories, but it was particularly irritating to have to trail behind McFarland, for he was in many respects the poorest reporter in town. He had scarcely any education; moreover he drank some, was unkempt in appearance, and did not look like a representative of a great daily organ of enlightenment. I doubt if he could have constructed a grammatical sentence. He collected his facts and telephoned them to his office to be written. But he obtained facts that the rest of us overlooked—largely because of his ability to maintain the respent and esteem of Jim Williams, the policeman.

"It's this way," somebody suggested one night, as a disgruntled quartet of us sat in the reporter's room at the central police station. "Williams is a stolid sort of cop, of not very high mentality. He lives on about the same intellectual plane as McFarland does. Naturally they have a good deal in common."

That set me to thinking. I made up my mind to rope in with policeman Williams on some basis of amity and equality which would lead to a free exchange of ideas and knowledge. I sat and tried to think what I would enjoy talking about if I were a policeman forty-two years old and weighing two hundred and forty-seven pounds. Obviously, he would probably care little about Chaucer, dramatic sequence, the binomial theorem, or the nebular hypothesis. I would have to get down to some of the elemental things of life. Well, I went out and tried him on a number of topics, which included: baseball, politics, horses, prize-fighting and physical culture. The only good response I got—the only positive reaction, as they say in scientific circles—was from the latter topic—physical culture, or how to keep one's self in the pink of physical condition. Williams was a trifle vain about his physique and gloried in his strength. Yet I found that I was still a trifle shy of hitting the nail right on the head. I felt certain I was getting warm, as the saying is, but there was something else that Williams would rather talk about than his physical prowess. Quite by accident I stumbled upon it. From physical culture we went by easy stages to diet — diet, food and cooking. There at last was Jim William's keynote. Food! Things to eat!

When you pause to consider it, this fad was not surprising. Here was a big, able-bodied man who was obliged to tramp about the streets all day with scant opportunity for mental stimulus, but all the time working up a fiendish appetite. Naturally, he was able to consume large quantities of food, and he tried various kinds. He liked food that was well prepared, and came to regard himself as something of an epicure. Food was his hobby. After I found this out, Williams and I used to stand on street corners discussing food and culinary processes for an hour at a time. His favorite proposition for friendly debate whether stewed chicken is better than fried chicken. I always spoke in behalf of fried chicken, and he was firm in his advocacy of having his chicken stewed. Before leaving him, however, I always conceded that perhaps he was rght. No matter how often we held this discussion, the policeman was always eager to take it up again. He was like a child who never tires of the same little bedtime stories over and over again.

Without knowing it at the time, I was learning salesmanship. I could have sold Jim Williams from a gold brick to a threshing machine.

"AIN'T NATURE GRAND!"

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

HOW TO WALK RHYTHMICALLY

If rythmic walking were extensively cultivated in this country, ungraceful poses, bad posture and physical awkwardness would rapidly become extinct. When I was young, I had my first lessons in perfect walking. Lessons which have been priceless in the years that have passed since then. Lessons that have conserved my energy, that have protected my leg muscles from strain and ache so many women experience.

Easy walking is always a pretty thing to watch. Poets and authors have raved over the graceful, easy stride of European peasant women. The natives of the Far East carry themselves with regal beauty—their heads high, their bodies musically, rhythmically in time.

First let me give you a few general hints. Don't strive for a springy walk. I know of no expression so badly abused. The average woman who cultivates "springiness" usually achieves an awkward, nerve-racking bounce! She makes bad time, and covers half the ground with twice the energy expended! Forget the "spring" and try to develop a wide, free swing; a long, even stride.

The first exercise — a basic one, which I will add to later, is the Pendulum swing.

Assume the correct starting position. You know it. Head up, shoulders straight, legs close together, toes pointing very very little outward. Hands on hips. Your leg is to swing in a complete a circle as you can achieve without bending the knee or working any but the hip muscles. Stretch the ankle, using the toe almost as a pointer, and being sure it clears the floor by at least a few inches. I know I have recommended this before for reducing the hips. Sometimes to stand on a book or low box facilitates the movement. Twist the waist so as to give the foot the necessary impetus to swing wide. Reverse, using the alternate foot.

While we are on the subject of walking, remember that an excellent beauty habit is to hum or to whistle to yourself while you walk. I don't have to declaim against tight skirts — they don't exist any more—but I can give you one hint. If you have been binding your own movements by the use of tight side garters, substitute round ones. You will soon learn a new liberty of motion. Another thing is to learn to breathe deeply and evenly to the beats of your footsteps.

Walking gracefully is a wonderful thing to learn. Ziegfeld spends weeks teaching it to his yearly recruits. And the girl who has traveled too far from her natural heritage of graceful motion to learn rapidly is disqualified, no matter how beautiful she may be in face or body. American women, I am sorry to admit, are not as graceful or smooth in movements as they should be.

Begin to teach yourself a correct rhythmic walk. It is a good foundation on which to build physical charm.

Dangers of Boric Acid

Boric, or boracic, acid (the same), and borax are such common household antiseptics that there is need for a warning that if taken internally, or absorbed through the skin or mucous membranes in too great concentration, over too long a period of time, they are poisonous.

Both boric acid and borax have the same foundation—boron—but the boric acid, as its name implies is an acid, and so contains hydrogen, and borax is an alkali containing sodium, the technical name being sodium borate.

Boric acid is a dangerous food preservative and its use has long been forbidden for such purposes in the United States, France, Germany, Holland, Italy and Spain, and recently in Great Britain. Milk that has been preserved with boric acid has resulted in serious bowel disorders in babies.

McNally and Rust, in a recent article in the Journal of the American Medical association, report the death of six babies from the accidental giving of boric acid solution for distilled water. Also the death of an adult who mistook boric acid for a saline laxative.

So keep your borice acid and borax solutions for your antiseptics, for they are good antiseptics, but tie a little bell on the bottle so you will know that they are poisonous if taken internally, and keep them out of the reach of children.

Every household should lay in a supply of tiny bells to tie on all bottles and any other receptacles that contain poisons They will automotically warn the absentminded and the nearsighted of their danger.

Mineral Foods in Tablet Form?

B. writes: "Dear Doctor Lulu: All farmers feed minerals to their hogs. I have found a mineral food in tablet form for people. It sounds good to me. I'm not an agent for it and have no interest whatever in the cash value of it, but if it is what is claimed, I think These tablets come in two forms: it is what everyone should eat. the tablet marked "M" is a builder, and the one marked "K" is an eliminator. I am supposed to take that they contain all of the minerals of the body. It is not a medicine but a food. I am sending you some of the tablets and want to know if they really contain the minerals needed by the body and if they contain any harmful drug. I do not want any of this letter published in any paper."

Dear B.—which isn't your initial —I'm sorry to disregard your wish about publishing this letter, but as it is not a personal one and as it contains material which is of general interest, I am doing so. Not, however, to extol the value of the product, but to expose the fallacy of getting food minerals in tablet form.

I don't know about the feeding of hogs—the kind you refer to, B, but with the exception of salt (sodium chloride), human animals have to get their minerals in the organic form — that is, as they come in the natural foods, not in the inorganic form as they are found in the earth, etc. Even in the case of secondary anemia, where iron is given, it never has been wholly settled whether it is absorbed or not, and always instructions are given to get plenty of foods containing iron, for when these are taken, the inorganic iron does seem in many cases to be of some aid.

Save your money, B., and use it for good food that contains mineral elements. Taken in tablet or other forms, they may do much harm. It would be just like taking drugs without the supervision of a physician. You'll forgive me for running your letter now that you know the harm such products can do

I do not analyze any products, B. You would have to take them to a chemical laboratory for that. Certain products are analyzed free of charge by the Boards of Health and in the laboratory of the American Medical association, if they are of general use and are under suspicion.

I think you had better send for our article on Balanced Diet. B. It requires a self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin.

It ended when I heard, through a girl friehd, that she heard that he didn't care for me any more. I told him just what I had heard and asked if it were true, and bawled him out good and plenty. Well, he wrote and told me plenty. That has been five months ago and I have never heard a word from him since. And how I am going to a wedding in the town where he lives and I am sure he is to be there. What shall I do? Should I talk first, or wait until he does? I am sure you can help me.

"BLUE EYES."

Regardless of whose fault it was that you quarreled so much, I think if I were you, if the chance offered, I would go up to him, shake hands and say you are sorry you wrote that cross letter. Then you will have done your share, and if he wants to be friends he can do his part.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

AN APRIL FOOL TRICK

Peter sat down upon a stone and listened eagerly to the tale that Mrs. Oven Bird was telling.

"Once upon a time," began she "just how long ago nobody knows, all the birds met on one fine day to choose a king. For a long while they argued among themselves what a bird must be able to do to prove that he was worthy to be the ruler of Birddom.

"One said that he must be the strongest, another declared that he must wear the handsomest coat, a third suggested he must be the mightiest of warriors. Not one of these suggestions suited everybody. And at last the birds hit upon the plan of electing as their king the bird who could fly the highest.

"So up in the heavens soared the birds and flew as far toward the sun as their wings would carry them. One by one they grew tired and dropped back to earth. The Eagle alone rose higher and higher until he, too, became weary at last and stopped in his upward flight unable to go a wing's length farther. But he sailed alone in the clouds. Looking down at the birds far beneath him in a loud voice he proclaimed himself their king.

"He spoke too soon. At the very second when he found he could make his weary wings bear him no farther a bird so tiny that to the watchers he appeared little more than a speck sprang up in the air and flew up, and up, and up high above the head of the floating Eagle.

"It was Wren, and when he had seen him re returned to earth had seeh him he returned to earth and proclaimed himself their king. He had hidden himself among the feathers on the back of the Eagle when nobody had been looking and so mounted had been carried into the skies When Wren's sted was tired he was able to take up the flight, for his own wings were unwearied. Even Eagle himself, angry as he was, admitted that he with his great strength had been defeated by the clever wits of the tiny Wren."

Peter laughed ahd clapped his hands.

"That was a bully good story" cried he. "But of course, that was only an April Fool's trick that Wren played upon Eagle. Surely Eagle really won the election—he did what the birds demanded and did it fairly and squarely. Wren won by cheating so of course nobody could take him seriously. He probably meant it for a joke on the mighty flyer. Ha! ha! I shall have to ask my friend Johnny Wren what he thinks about it. I don't believe that he imagines he is kihg, for a moment."

A TINY BIRD SPRANG INTO THE AIR AND FLEW HIGH ABOVE THE HEAD OF THE EAGLE

"If course Johnny Wren does not. I have told wifie time and again. It is perfectly silly for her to keep on insisting that he is king. Eagle would be furious if ever he heard her."

"Silly am I!" screamed his wife. "Silly! Well I'll have you know that I am a great deal smarter bird than you are. Who are you, I'd like to know! All my family were furious when I married you."

MOVEMENT FOR TWO SOFTBALL LEAGUES LAUNCHED IN XENIA

Movement for the organization of two softball leagues in Xenia received its first impetus at a meeting of enthusiasts of this sport Wednesday night.

Encouraged by the success of the two leagues which operated last year, sponsors of the movement believe the success of similar circuits this summer is assured.

Games would be played five nights each week, exclusive of Saturdays and Sundays, at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

It is planned to group six teams in one league to be known as Class A and four teams in a junior league to be known as Class B. Winners of the two league championships would play a post-season series for the city title.

The Downtown Country Club, which, under the name of the Junior Business Men, won the city championship last summer, expects to again enter a team in the field.

All organizations or groups interested in the formation of a softball team, are asked to formally enter teams by May 1 as it is hoped to inaugurate the season the second week in May. Teams should submit entries to John Purdom, N. West St.

If a club or any other organization enters a team, all of its members will be eligible to play on the team. However, any "pick-up" team drawing its players from no limited group, will be required to also submit an eligibility list limited to fifteen names.

If two or more teams submit the name of the same player on their eligibility lists, the player in question will be given his preference as to which team he will identify himself with.

No player may play on more than one team or in more than one league. In the event a team is shy several players for a game, the contest must be forfeited unless the team cares to play with those players who appear, regardless if the number is inadequate.

In deciding that "pick-up" teams must abide by an eligibility list of fifteen players during the season, it is pointed out this rule will eliminate a tendency to add new players every week which last season sometimes resulted in various teams presenting radically changed lineups for each game.

FIGURES show that more Prince Albert is smoked by experienced jimmy-pipers than any other brand. You might give any of a dozen reasons why they bought their first tin of P.A. But their tenth and their hundredth . . . only demonstrated quality can account for that! Wouldn't you say so?

The very fragrance of P.A. is an indication of the quality-taste still to come. The first fire-up makes good on the aromatic promise. Cool as a steeple-jack doing his stuff. Sweet as getting back to earth again safely. Mild and mellow and long-burning. Some tobacco, Men, and no mistake!

If you don't know the joys of a pipe packed with P.A., get busy and make up for lost time. No matter what your present set-up may be, try Prince Albert. It is not an experiment, but an experience — a little journey into a land of pipe-joy that you'll take many times every day.

The revenue stamp tells you—TWO full ounces in every tin.

FIGURES show that more Prince Albert is smoked by experienced jimmy-pipers than any other brand. You might give any of a dozen reasons why they bought their first tin of P.A. But their tenth and their hundredth . . . only demonstrated quality can account for that! Wouldn't you say so?

The very fragrance of P.A. is an indication of the quality-taste still to come. The first fire-up makes good on the aromatic promise. Cool as a steeple-jack doing his stuff. Sweet as getting back to earth again safely. Mild and mellow and long-burning. Some tobacco, Men, and no mistake!

If you don't know the joys of a pipe packed with P.A., get busy and make up for lost time. No matter what your present set-up may be, try Prince Albert. It is not an experiment, but an experience — a little journey into a land of pipe-joy that you'll take many times every day.

The revenue stamp tells you—TWO full ounces in every tin.

RADIO GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES HEARD AT ST. BRIGID CHURCH

Worshippers participating in the public meditation in recognition of the hours of the Crusifixion Good Friday afternoon at St. Brigid Catholic Church will be linked by radio with similar worshippers at St. Xavier Catholic Church, Cincinnati, according to announcement of the Rev. David Powers, pastor.

This will be the first time locally that the radio has been employed as one of the newest scientific inventions to assist worshippers in one of the oldest ecclesiastical services. The services at St. Xavier Church are for men and are attended by members of the Knights of Columbus and other Catholic organizations. It is expected that approximately 1,500 will be in attendance. The solemn Tre Ore services will be broadcast from the church by Station WSAI and a receiving instrument will convey the services to worshippers at the Xenia church. At 2:30 the radio service will be stopped and the ceremony of the Way of the Cross will be started at the local church.

Services observing Passion Week at St. Brigid Church started Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, celebrating Holy Thursday as the day on which Christ instituted the sacrament of communion at the Last Supper. A large crowd attended the mass Thursday morning. Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock services in thanksgiving for the institution of the Blessed Sacrament will be held with a sermon.

Services Good Friday include the mass of the Presanctified at 7 o'clock and besides the Tre Ore services, there will be services at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. On Holy Saturday the mass will be at 6:30 in the morning and Lent officially ends at noon Saturday. During the days of the passion the church bell is not sounded.

Easter morning services begin with a high mass at 6 o'clock and will be followed by low mass at 8:30 o'clock and a high mass and benediction at 10 o'clock. Announcements of the Holy Week services were contained in a letter sent to members of the congregation this week by the Rev. Father Powers and containing his greetings for a happy Easter.

BALLOT CONTRACT AWARDED ALDINE COMPANY BY BOARD

Contract for printing 30,000 Republican and Democratic ballots for the presidential preference primary election April 24 was awarded to The Aldine Publishing Co. by the Greene County Board of Elections Wednesday night.

One other bid was considered by the board.

The successful firm proposes to furnish 30,000 ballots at a total cost of $303.75.

Under the contract, 10,000 ballots containing names of Republican delegates and alternates to the national convention at Kansas City, Mo. will be furnished at a cost of $14 per 1,000.

Approximately 5,000 ballots with names of delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention at Houston will be supplied for $12.75 per 1,000.

The contract also calls for printing 10,000 Republican presidential preference ballots at $7.50 per 1,000 and 5,000 Democratic presidential preference ballots for $5 per 1,000.

Absent voters ballots are also expected to be available some time next week, according to R. E. Dunkel, clerk of the election board.

RICH OIL OPERATOR BELIEVED DROWNED

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., April 5.—Milton J. Beatty, 42, of Warren, Pa., a prominent sportsman and wealthy oil operator is believed to have been drowned in Chautauqua Lake. He went for a trial spin in a new speed boat and has not been seen since. The boat was found today, overturned on an ice floe.

Beatty was well known as an operator in the Pennsylvania and Oklahoma oil fields. He leaves a wife and two children.

INSANITY IS MADE DIVORCE GROUNDS HERE; OTHER NEWS

Charging that at the time of their marriage twenty-one years ago, but unknown to her, the defendant, although entirely sane on some subjects, was nevertheless a victim of congenital insanity and brought about the marriage contract through fraud, Veda Haynes has filed suit for divorce from Ira G. Haynes, an insane person, in Common Pleas Court.

Plaintiff explains that this insanity was of a character as to escape observation except to those having expert knowledge.

The defendant, although aware of his mental condition, carefully concealed the fact, plaintiff alleges, adding that it later gradually became known to her.

The defendant's family was unknown to her, according to the plaintiff, who asserts her husband said he had two brothers and no sisters whereas he had two sisters confined in the state hospital at Athens, both insane, and a brother, Emmett, who had been insane and was confined in an asylum.

It is set forth in the petition that the defendant was committed to the Dayton State Hospital as insane, and remaining there seven years before being transferred to the Lima State Hospital, where he has been ever since.

Claiming ownership of one-fourth of certain real estate described in the petition, plaintiff asks that her husband be barred of dower interest.

The couple were married May 15, 1907. No children were born of the union.

The court has appointed Attorney J. A. Finney as trustee for the defendant.

DAMAGES SOUGHT

Suit for $247.50 damages, alleging violation of a contract, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Newton Upton against Jessie M. and Earl Butts.

The contract with the defendant couple, who live on a farm owned by Jessie Butts in Xenia Twp., was made August 30, 1927, according to the petition.

Under an agreement that he would pay the defendants $1 a cord for wood to be cut by himself on the farm, plaintiff asserts he cut twenty-three and one-half cords and paid the defendants $23.50, the full amount due. However he only received sixteen of the cords and is entitled to the remaining seven and one-half, he claims.

Upton also declares the he contracted to cut railroad ties off the farm and haul them away to his own property, paying the defendants fifteen cents for each tie.

He cut 390 ties and paid $40 but only received 100 ties leaving 290 still due, he complains.

On January 12, when agents of Upton attempted to remove the wood from the farm, Earl Butts refused them permission to do so and his wife corroborated his stand, according to the petition.

Asserting the defendants converted the remaining ties and wood due him to their own use, plaintiff says each tie was reasonably worth seventy-five cents and the wood was worth $4 per cord, resulting in damage to him of $247.50 through inability to remove the wood and ties from the farm.

Attorney F. H. Dean represents the plaintiff.

SUES ON NOTE

Suit for $127.20, alleged due on a promissory note, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Carl Klontz against J. F. Paullin. Morris Rice is attorney for the plaintiff.

JUDGMENT CONFESSED

Clyde E. Huffman, George L. Huffman and Laura E. Huffman, defendants in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by John T. Harbine, Jr., have confessed judgment on a promissory note for $270.59.

CONFIRM SALES

Sale of property to James Higginson for $811 has been confirmed in the case of John Bramlette, as executor of the estate of James W. Allen, deceased, against Edith Thompson and others in Probate Court.

The court also approved private sale of property to W. E. and Emma V. Hall for $627.50 in the case of I. F. Stewart, as administrator of the estate of Lucinda Perkins Hankinson, deceased, against Elizabeth Bangham and others.

VALUE ESTATE

Gross value of the estate of Cyrus C. Lackey, deceased, is estimated at $11,319 in Probate Court, composed as follows: personalty $3,407, and real estate, $7,912. Debts and the cost of administration total $2,264, leaving a net value of $9,055.

FINAL DISCHARGE

An account of various payments made, filed in Probate Court by W. W. Stackhouse, as administrator of the estate of Taylor Jenks, deceased, has been allowed by the court as the administrator's final discharge.

Red Letter Days

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For very special occasions, "when one simply must look her best" the skin needs freshening and toning. And a "facial" comes to the rescue.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

Some women look young and carefully groomed for a night or two. Then their skin gradually lapses back into muddy, dull hue. . . . until another important event.

You can give your face the firm, flawless tone of youth. You should keep it in this condition not only for important engagements but every day because your're just as closely scruitinized day in and day out.

This is the simple treatment I have found really necessary for youthful skin:

Apply my White Youth Clay once a week, twice a month or as often as your skin requires. After washing it off you will feel the pleasant sensation of a real astringent. The clay rids your skin of blackheads and similar blemishes, gently purging the pores of their accumulated impurities which sometimes sink so deep, especially in oily skins.

My White Youth Clay is the only dainty, agreeable clay pack I know. You can get it at any toilet counter. —Adv.

Let us do your valeting. You know how clothes will spot but for the life of you you can't account for the blemishes. No need to worry when we are on the job. When your clothes require attention, phone us and our car will call and we will send the suit back the same day if it is needed. We have the reputation of doing excellent work at most reasonable rates.

It is set forth in the petition that the defendant was committed to the Dayton State Hospital as insane, and remaining there seven years before being transferred to the Lima State Hospital, where he has been ever since.

Claiming ownership of one-fourth of certain real estate described in the petition, plaintiff asks that her husband be barred of dower interest.

The couple were married May 15, 1907. No children were born of the union.

The court has appointed Attorney J. A. Finney as trustee for the defendant.

DAMAGES SOUGHT

Suit for $247.50 damages, alleging violation of a contract, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Newton Upton against Jessie M. and Earl Butts.

The contract with the defendant couple, who live on a farm owned by Jessie Butts in Xenia Twp., was made August 30, 1927, according to the petition.

Under an agreement that he would pay the defendants $1 a cord for wood to be cut by himself on the farm, plaintiff asserts he cut twenty-three and one-half cords and paid the defendants $23.50, the full amount due. However he only received sixteen of the cords and is entitled to the remaining seven and one-half, he claims.

Upton also declares the he contracted to cut railroad ties off the farm and haul them away to his own property, paying the defendants fifteen cents for each tie.

He cut 390 ties and paid $40 but only received 100 ties leaving 290 still due, he complains.

On January 12, when agents of Upton attempted to remove the wood from the farm, Earl Butts refused them permission to do so and his wife corroborated his stand, according to the petition.

Asserting the defendants converted the remaining ties and wood due him to their own use, plaintiff says each tie was reasonably worth seventy-five cents and the wood was worth $4 per cord, resulting in damage to him of $247.50 through inability to remove the wood and ties from the farm.

Attorney F. H. Dean represents the plaintiff.

SUES ON NOTE

Suit for $127.20, alleged due on a promissory note, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Carl Klontz against J. F. Paullin. Morris Rice is attorney for the plaintiff.

JUDGMENT CONFESSED

Clyde E. Huffman, George L. Huffman and Laura E. Huffman, defendants in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by John T. Harbine, Jr., have confessed judgment on a promissory note for $270.59.

CONFIRM SALES

Sale of property to James Higginson for $811 has been confirmed in the case of John Bramlette, as executor of the estate of James W. Allen, deceased, against Edith Thompson and others in Probate Court.

The court also approved private sale of property to W. E. and Emma V. Hall for $627.50 in the case of I. F. Stewart, as administrator of the estate of Lucinda Perkins Hankinson, deceased, against Elizabeth Bangham and others.

VALUE ESTATE

Gross value of the estate of Cyrus C. Lackey, deceased, is estimated at $11,319 in Probate Court, composed as follows: personalty $3,407, and real estate, $7,912. Debts and the cost of administration total $2,264, leaving a net value of $9,055.

FINAL DISCHARGE

An account of various payments made, filed in Probate Court by W. W. Stackhouse, as administrator of the estate of Taylor Jenks, deceased, has been allowed by the court as the administrator's final discharge.

Red Letter Days

By Edna Wallace Hopper

For very special occasions, "when one simply must look her best" the skin needs freshening and toning. And a "facial" comes to the rescue.

Some women look young and carefully groomed for a night or two. Then their skin gradually lapses back into muddy, dull hue. . . . until another important event.

Edna Wallace Hopper as she looks today

You can give your face the firm, flawless tone of youth. You should keep it in this condition not only for important engagements but every day because your're just as closely scruitinized day in and day out.

This is the simple treatment I have found really necessary for youthful skin:

Apply my White Youth Clay once a week, twice a month or as often as your skin requires. After washing it off you will feel the pleasant sensation of a real astringent. The clay rids your skin of blackheads and similar blemishes, gently purging the pores of their accumulated impurities which sometimes sink so deep, especially in oily skins.

My White Youth Clay is the only dainty, agreeable clay pack I know. You can get it at any toilet counter. —Adv.

Let us do your valeting. You know how clothes will spot but for the life of you you can't account for the blemishes. No need to worry when we are on the job. When your clothes require attention, phone us and our car will call and we will send the suit back the same day if it is needed. We have the reputation of doing excellent work at most reasonable rates.

PAROLES SAVE YOUTHS FROM SERVING TIME IN REFORMATORY

Four youths indicted by the grand jury for auto theft and burglary and larceny following confessions that they robbed three farm homes near Xenia last month and were also implicated in numerous thefts of automobiles, were given suspended sentences in the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield and then paroled in Common Pleas Court Thursday morning.

Edgar Perrin, 20, Hook Road, indicted on three counts of burglary and larceny and five counts of auto theft; James Mangan, 20, Hook Road, indicted on two counts for burglary and larceny and two counts of auto theft; Russell Dean, 18, living off the Jamestown Pike, east of Xenia; and Lester Rhinisperger, 19, W. Third St., were the youths paroled. A fifth boy had previously been paroled.

They were each given suspended sentences of from one to twenty years at Mansfield. Perrin and Mangan were paroled in the custody of the latter's father, Daniel Mangan. Dean was paroled to his father, Herbert Dean, and Rhinisperger was paroled to Charles Payne. All pleaded guilty. They had asked suspended sentences.

Their paroles are conditioned upon their promise to remain at their respective homes five nights each week and to refrain from driving automobiles or even take rides in autos except when relatives are along for a period of one year.

Perrin was indicted for theft of five autos and for implication in the robbery of the W. A. Crumley home March 11; the Walter Alexander home March 8, and the George Sutton residence February 12.

Mangan was charged with the theft of autos from Lester Reed, Cedarville, and Howard Corry, Yellow Springs; and implication in the robberies of the Alexander and Sutton homes.

Dean was indicted for theft of an auto from Herbert Burns, Bellbrook, and an auto from Lester Reed February 10.

Rhinisperger was accused of stealing two autos owned by Ed Oster, Yellow Springs.

Pleading guilty to an indictment for carrying concealed weapons, Elijah Gilbert, colored, was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to serve thirty days in the County Jail Wednesday afternoon. This was the minimum penalty for the offense. Prosecutor J. C. Marshall agreed to nolle another indictment for assault, growing out of the same case.

Gilbert was charged with making an assault on Samuel Wigginton, colored, 932 E. Market St. last February 4, drawing an automatic and flourishing a knife. Wigginton was not seriously hurt.

Police say Gilbert once served a term of seven years in Ohio State Penitentiary for cutting with intent to kill.

Fred Posey, colored, indicted for cutting with intent to wound his brother, Nelson, March 7, must serve an old pentence of from one to fifteen years in Ohio State Penitentiary, the court ordered Thursday. The former sentence was ordered enforced.

Posey was originally sentenced to prison for his part in the attempted robbery of the Xenia Mercantile Co., E. Second St., in November, 1926. He was then paroled and authorities charged he violated the parole.

Fred Scurry, colored, this city, was paroled from a sentence of from one to fifteen years in the Ohio Reformatory, imposed on a plea of guilty to an indictment for burglary in connection with the robbery of the S. Detroit St. branch of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. last January 25.

The court suspended the sentence and paroled him in the custody of Ed Lang, this city.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. W. H. MINOR HERE

Mrs. Nellie Minor, 55, wife of W. H. Minor, died at her home on Lincoln St., Thursday morning at 6 o'clock. She had been ill five weeks with grip and a complication of ailments.

Mrs. Minor was born in Highland County and lived in Xenia only a year. She leaves her husband and the following children: Roy, John, Ellis and Clarence at home and Mrs. Mozell Stewart, Cedarville.

She was a member of the U. B. Church. Funeral services have not been arranged.

WOMAN CONVICTED; DECISION MAY TEST LEGALITY OF RAIDS

Convicted of possessing liquor by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Thursday morning, Mrs. Edward Matthews, colored, 523 E. Third St., was fined $100 and costs.

Attorney F. L. Johnson, defense counsel, announced the conviction would be appealed to the Greene County Appellate Court.

A quart and a pint of corn whiskey were confiscated in a raid conducted on the Matthews home last Friday night by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, who served Mr. and Mrs. Matthews with a search warrant. The liquor found in the pantry, was intended for use at a party, it was said.

Defense counsel made a motion for return of the whiskey, basing it on a decision of the Cuyahoga County Appellate Court, which held authorities cannot legally issue a warrant for search of a private residence unless it is shown the liquor was intended for sale.

The court overruled the motion. Mrs. Matthews had pleaded not guilty. She was released on her own recognizance pending the filing of an appeal.

SMALL FIRE

Fire, spreading from a pile of burning rubbish, ignited a small out building in the rear of the home of Mrs. Everett Evans, colored, 624 E. Church St., at 11:45 a. m. Thursday, but was extinguished without damage by firemen. Chemicals were used.

FIREMAN INJURED IN SCHOOL BLAZE

DAYTON, O., April 5—One fireman was injured in a fall from a ladder while fighting a fire which partly destroyed the St. Joseph parochial school, Second and Madison Sts. Thursday morning.

Otha Greger, 2151 Wyoming St., on duty with No. 8 company as a substitute fireman, suffered shoulder injuries in the fall from a ladder placed against the three-story building on the Second St. side. The accident was not observed.

After being found at the foot of the ladder, the injured man was removed to Miami Valley Hospital.

PAROLES SAVE YOUTHS FROM SERVING TIME IN REFORMATORY

Four youths indicted by the grand jury for auto theft and burglary and larceny following confessions that they robbed three farm homes near Xenia last month and were also implicated in numerous thefts of automobiles, were given suspended sentences in the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield and then paroled in Common Pleas Court Thursday morning.

Edgar Perrin, 20, Hook Road, indicted on three counts of burglary and larceny and five counts of auto theft; James Mangan, 20, Hook Road, indicted on two counts for burglary and larceny and two counts of auto theft; Russell Dean, 18, living off the Jamestown Pike, east of Xenia; and Lester Rhinisperger, 19, W. Third St., were the youths paroled. A fifth boy had previously been paroled.

They were each given suspended sentences of from one to twenty years at Mansfield. Perrin and Mangan were paroled in the custody of the latter's father, Daniel Mangan. Dean was paroled to his father, Herbert Dean, and Rhinisperger was paroled to Charles Payne. All pleaded guilty. They had asked suspended sentences.

Their paroles are conditioned upon their promise to remain at their respective homes five nights each week and to refrain from driving automobiles or even take rides in autos except when relatives are along for a period of one year.

Perrin was indicted for theft of five autos and for implication in the robbery of the W. A. Crumley home March 11; the Walter Alexander home March 8, and the George Sutton residence February 12.

Mangan was charged with the theft of autos from Lester Reed, Cedarville, and Howard Corry, Yellow Springs; and implication in the robberies of the Alexander and Sutton homes.

Dean was indicted for theft of an auto from Herbert Burns, Bellbrook, and an auto from Lester Reed February 10.

Rhinisperger was accused of stealing two autos owned by Ed Oster, Yellow Springs.

Pleading guilty to an indictment for carrying concealed weapons, Elijah Gilbert, colored, was fined $1 and costs and sentenced to serve thirty days in the County Jail Wednesday afternoon. This was the minimum penalty for the offense. Prosecutor J. C. Marshall agreed to nolle another indictment for assault, growing out of the same case.

Gilbert was charged with making an assault on Samuel Wigginton, colored, 932 E. Market St. February 4, drawing an automatic and flourishing a knife. Wigginton was not seriously hurt.

Police say Gilbert once served a term of seven years in Ohio State Penitentiary for cutting with intent to kill.

Fred Posey, colored, indicted for cutting with intent to wound his brother, Nelson, March 7, must serve an old pentence of from one to fifteen years in Ohio State Penitentiary, the court ordered Thursday. The former sentence was ordered enforced.

Posey was originally sentenced to prison for his part in the attempted robbery of the Xenia Mercantile Co., E. Second St., in November, 1926. He was then paroled and authorities charged he violated the parole.

Fred Scurry, colored, this city, was paroled from a sentence of from one to fifteen years in the Ohio Reformatory, imposed on a plea of guilty to an indictment for burglary in connection with the robbery of the S. Detroit St. branch of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. last January 25.

The court suspended the sentence and paroled him in the custody of Ed Lang, this city.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. W. H. MINOR HERE

Mrs. Nellie Minor, 55, wife of W. H. Minor, died at her home on Lincoln St., Thursday morning at 6 o'clock. She had been ill five weeks with grip and a complication of ailments.

Mrs. Minor was born in Highland County and lived in Xenia only a year. She leaves her husband and the following children: Roy, John, Ellis and Clarence at home and Mrs. Mozell Stewart, Cedarville.

She was a member of the U. B. Church. Funeral services have not been arranged.

WOMAN CONVICTED; DECISION MAY TEST LEGALITY OF RAIDS

Convicted of possessing liquor by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Thursday morning, Mrs. Edward Matthews, colored, 523 E. Third St., was fined $100 and costs.

Attorney F. L. Johnson, defense counsel, announced the conviction would be appealed to the Greene County Appellate Court.

A quart and a pint of corn whiskey were confiscated in a raid conducted on the Matthews home last Friday night by Sheriff Ohmer Tate and Deputy Sheriff George Sugden, who served Mr. and Mrs. Matthews with a search warrant. The liquor found in the pantry, was intended for use at a party, it was said.

Defense counsel made a motion for return of the whiskey, basing it on a decision of the Cuyahoga County Appellate Court, which held authorities cannot legally issue a warrant for search of a private residence unless it is shown the liquor was intended for sale.

The court overruled the motion. Mrs. Matthews had pleaded not guilty. She was released on her own recognizance pending the filing of an appeal.

SMALL FIRE

Fire, spreading from a pile of burning rubbish, ignited a small out building in the rear of the home of Mrs. Everett Evans, colored, 624 E. Church St., at 11:45 a. m. Thursday, but was extinguished without damage by firemen. Chemicals were used.

FIREMAN INJURED IN SCHOOL BLAZE

DAYTON, O., April 5—One fireman was injured in a fall from a ladder while fighting a fire which partly destroyed the St. Joseph parochial school, Second and Madison Sts. Thursday morning.

Otha Greger, 2151 Wyoming St., on duty with No. 8 company as a substitute fireman, suffered shoulder injuries in the fall from a ladder placed against the three-story building on the Second St. side. The accident was not observed.

After being found at the foot of the ladder, the injured man was removed to Miami Valley Hospital.

WHILE MINISTERS PRAY POLICE CAN SEE NO EVIL IN CHICAGO

Above, W. E. O'Connor, deputy commissioner of detectives, and Joe Saltis, gangster whom police say is in hiding; below, Dr. F. Emory Lyon, founder of prison aid society, and Dr. N. E. Barr, mission pastor.

(In her fourth dispatch on "Trailing the Chicago Gangster," Miss Bonita Witt, writer for Central Press and Gazette has interviewed representative citizens of Chicago on the city's "badness." She has talked with police officers, ministers and social workers to obtain an insight into Chicago's opinion of itself.)

By BONITA WITT
Staff Writer for Central Press and Gazette

CHICAGO, April 5—As soon as one begins checking up on the veracity of Chicago's reputation for badness one meets a diversity of opinion.

It becomes by turns the best and the worst city in the United States.

William Hale ("Big Bill") Thompson, its colorful mayor, denounces the "lying newspaper editors who print charges that Chicago is a crime-ridden city." He declares Police Commissioner Michael Hughes had lowered the crime figures for some months 50 per cent ,and for other months even 60 and 75 per cent in contrast with records for the corresponding month in the previous year.

A Minister's View

Party politics is blamed by Dr. N. E. Barr, pastor of the Olivet Mission church, situated in a foreign settlement in which almost every home is reported to house a still.

"If Democrats and Republicans would get together," he asserts, "and agree to stop catering to the under world in order to get votes, seventy-five per cent of the crime would be eliminated. As long as citizens tolerate these conditions they will exist. Chicago is no worse than any other city of its size, except gangsters go unpunished because the officers of the law wink at violations. If a Republican gets arrested he goes to a certain Republican law firm and gets counsel. Then there is a special firm for the Democrats.

"There is one lawyer in this town who was considered embarrassed one day when he asked for a writ of habeas corpus to free a man and discovered his client hadn't even been arrested. You see the thieves have an association and keep in touch with their lawyers every hour. When this man didn't report the lawyer thought he had been locked up and immediately took steps to have him freed."

Pray for City

At a recent meeting of the Union Ministers' Association, it was decided that Chicago's morals were at such a low ebb that a day of prayer was urged in churches.

But the prayers did not prevent a resumption of gang warfare. The next gang leader was, in fact, shot down near a church, the day following the day of prayer.

An indictment of the city drawn up by the ministers declared "conditions have reached a state where the ballot box is wantonly violated; where life and property are not safe; where the homes of citizens are menaced by bombs; where crime, graft, and corruption are increasing; and where there is a partnership between criminals and some officials, as shown by the existence of hundreds of gambling joints and vice dens, and thousands of places selling intoxicating liquor, openly tolerated by negligent officials."

In the opinion of Dr. F. Emory Lyon, founder and superintendent of the Central Howard Association, an organization which helps released prisoners to get on their feet, too much has been written about Chicago, and all of it bad. He believes crime, such as exists in other cities, is decreasing in Chicago.

Why Crime Decreases

"Crime is decreasing because boys are being paroled to responsible persons," he declares. "Society must go to the root of the evil if it wishes to eradicate crime. I consider the orphan asylum crime's kindergarten, the reformatory its prep school and the penitentiary its college.

"The indeterminate sentence is the solution of crime. We are gradually forgetting the old idea that a criminal must be punished. He's punished when the prison door closes behind him. Once there our problem is to educate him and teach him to again become a useful member of society.

"The big gangsters don't come to us—they go back to their old friends and ways. They confine their quarrels to themselves, but the outside world hears of their battles and believes Chicago is a wicked place."

Now!—A Policeman's Opinion

And the policeman on the beat—what does he think of it? A friendly law guardian on Halstead Street, one of the "bad neighborhoods," expressed the opinion of many of Chicago's 800 officers. Now, I tell you, this place used to be pretty bad, but has quieted down quite a bit. However, if I were you, young lady, I wouldn't go out looking for gangsters if you don't want to go 'for a ride'—which means a ride from which there is no return."

Still faintly hoping to meet an honest-to-goodness gangster I decided the detective bureau should be able to produce a few, asked Deputy Commissioner of Detectives W. E. O'Connor where they could be found—and the answer came, "Young woman, you have come to the wrong town. There aren't any gangsters in Chicago today. They've all left.

Gives Credit to His Boss

"Several years ago the place was overrun with them. They boasted that they were the law, and they intimidated virtually everyone while apparently enjoying immunity. Mayor Thompson's administration has changed all that.

"Many of the leaders are in the south, for the winter. 'Polack Joe' Saltis is in hiding. They have found out they can't do as they like. The bombings you read about are the last feeble gestures of the gangs. They don't scare me. The papers make entirely too much of them."

I interrupted: "But, commissioner, a certain man who is at least on speaking acquaintance with the underworld promised to take me to the———cabaret, declaring I would see a number of the 'beer barons' there."

Well, Well, All a Mistake

The detective chief retorted: "Young lady, that's a lie. I told the owners of that place if I ever saw a man with a record in there I would close the place. We've even yanked gangsters out of prize fights, restaurants and theaters."

An automobile and a chauffeur could be furnished for a tour of Chicago's scenic points of interest—but when it came to producing gangsters, there just weren't any available, said the commissioner.

In the meantime—a gun or two popped in the distance, and another gang leader bit the mud in this outwardly calm, wild and woolly city.

(Another Dispatch Tomorrow)

HELD UNDER BONDS

Waiving preliminary examination and pleading not guilty to charges of burglary, Esta Spurlock and Jack Cyphers, both of Greene County, were held to the Clark County grand jury under $1,000 bonds by Judge Golden C. Davis in Springfield Municipal Court Wednesday.

Suspected of having broken into the hen house of George Group, Rebert Pike, and stealing twenty-six chickens, the pair was arrested Sunday night by Sheriff Benham, of Clark County.

RELATIVE DROWNS

John Rankin, of Tarkio, Mo., father of Mrs. Clayton McMillan, of the Columbus Pike, was drowned last Saturday afternoon, according to information received by Mrs. McMillan. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan started for Tarkio immediately after receiving word of the tragedy. It is believed by relatives that Mr. Rankin may have fallen into a deep ditch on his farm while attempting to cross it.

Perfect Health
is always refreshing

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

WHEN your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning.

Instead, you feel refreshed; ready to meet the world!

Your appetite is keen, you enjoy work or play. Your skin is clear—cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did."—Miss Ruth Gahm, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

"The big gangsters don't come to us—they go back to their old friends and ways. They confine their quarrels to themselves, but the outside world hears of their battles and believes Chicago is a wicked place."

Now!—A Policeman's Opinion

And the policeman on the beat—what does he think of it? A friendly law guardian on Halstead Street, one of the "bad neighborhoods," expressed the opinion of many of Chicago's 800 officers. Now, I tell you, this place used to be pretty bad, but has quieted down quite a bit. However, if I were you, young lady, I wouldn't go out looking for gangsters if you don't want to go "for a ride"—which means a ride from which there is no return."

Still faintly hoping to meet an honest-to-goodness gangster I decided the detective bureau should be able to produce a few, asked Deputy Commissioner of Detectives W. E. O'Connor where they could be found—and the answer came, "Young woman, you have come to the wrong town. There aren't any gangsters in Chicago today. They've all left.

Gives Credit to His Boss

"Several years ago the place was overrun with them. They boasted that they were the law, and they intimidated virtually everyone while apparently enjoying immunity. Mayor Thompson's administration has changed all that.

"Many of the leaders are in the south, for the winter. 'Polack Joe' Saltis is in hiding. They have found out they can't do as they like. The bombings you read about are the last feeble gestures of the gangs. They don't scare me. The papers make entirely too much of them."

I interrupted: "But, commissioner, a certain man who is at least on speaking acquaintance with the underworld promised to take me to the———cabaret, declaring I would see a number of the 'beer barons' there."

Well, Well, All a Mistake

The detective chief retorted: "Young lady, that's a lie. I told the owners of that place if I ever saw a man with a record in there I would close the place. We've even yanked gangsters out of prize fights, restaurants and theaters."

An automobile and a chauffeur could be furnished for a tour of Chicago's scenic points of interest—but when it came to producing gangsters, there just weren't any available, said the commissioner.

In the meantime—a gun or two popped in the distance, and another gang leader bit the mud in this outwardly calm, wild and woolly city.

HELD UNDER BONDS

Waiving preliminary examination and pleading not guilty to charges of burglary, Esta Spurlock and Jack Cyphers, both of Greene County, were held to the Clark County grand jury under $1,000 bonds by Judge Golden C. Davis in Springfield Municipal Court Wednesday.

Suspected of having broken into the hen house of George Group, Rebert Pike, and stealing twenty-six chickens, the pair was arrested Sunday night by Sheriff Benham, of Clark County.

RELATIVE DROWNS

John Rankin, of Tarkio, Mo., father of Mrs. Clayton McMillan, of the Columbus Pike, was drowned last Saturday afternoon, according to information received by Mrs. McMillan. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan started for Tarkio immediately after receiving word of the tragedy. It is believed by relatives that Mr. Rankin may have fallen into a deep ditch on his farm while attempting to cross it.

Perfect Health
is always refreshing

If you are tired—lack pep—if your skin is not clear—if your appetite is "gone"—you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S. Its tonic effects will surprise you.

WHEN your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning.

Instead, you feel refreshed; ready to meet the world!

Your appetite is keen, you enjoy work or play. Your skin is clear—cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood is Nature's substance for building and sustaining the body.

Thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking a few bottles of S.S.S.—Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—thru the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did." —Miss Ruth Gahm, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

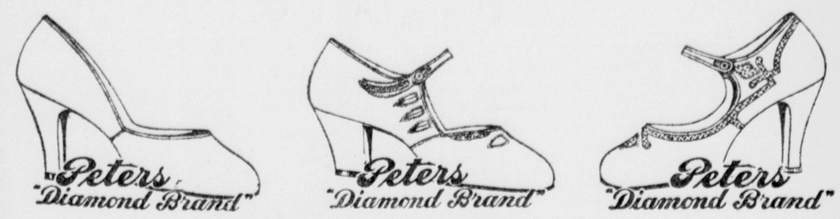

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

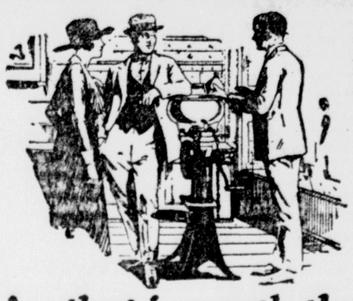

W. B. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

YOUTH TAKES FIVE FIRST PRIZES FOR AIRPLANE TOURNEY

Robert Kinsey, Swisher Road, won the grand prize, a bronze medal, and first prize in each of the four divisions in the model miniature airplane contest which was conducted at Shawnee Park Monday afternoon.

The medal will be suitably engraved with the name of the winner, and other details regarding the contest.

Young Kinsey's plane won first in endurance, altitude, distance and speed. The little model remained in the air five minutes and flew a distance of about two blocks.

Lawrence Hornick's plane captured all four second prizes. Edwin Bath's plane was awarded third prize for endurance and altitude and fourth prize for speed. William Wagner's machine finished fourth in endurance and altitude divisions and was awarded third place for distance and speed. Charles Wallace Adair was awarded fourth place for distance.

About 100 boys were present and cheered their favorites in the contest. Six airplanes participated.

Merchandise prizes were awarded the winners, and they were presented by P. E. Cox, manager of the J. C. Penney store. The contest judges were: P. E. Cox, Harold Owens of the Criterion and Ralph Dalton of the Woolworth store. The contest was managed by David Hamlin.

It's amazing the way all-mash-fed chicks grow

THE way baby chicks thrive and grow when fed on UBIKO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration is little short of miraculous. No weak, droopy, listless chicks with overgrown wing and tail feathers—or with no feathers at all—when UBIKO ALL-MASH is fed regularly.

This ration will promote a rapid, well-balanced growth of body and feathers. It will make firm flesh and strong bone — no weak legs with UBIKO-fed chicks. That's because it is a complete ration and every ingredient is chosen with the greatest care and has been thoroughly tested. Sound, wholesome grains supplemented with choice meat scraps, dried buttermilk, cod-liver oil, bone meal, salt and charcoal make UBIKO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration practically perfect.

The advantages of all-mash feeding are decidedly worth while. Self-feeders prevent the usual crowding that accompanies litter-feeding. The ration is always clean. By no chance can the chicks pick up mouldy, decayed grains that may carry disease and parasites. Again, all-mash feeding is convenient. It is a time and labor saver. It does away with all guesswork, as UBIKO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration provides all the nutrients needed by the growing pullets and cockerels.

Get the facts—

We will be glad to tell you more about the UBIKO ALL-MASH System and supply descriptive circulars. We also sell the entire line of UBIKO World Record Feeds for dairy cattle, horses, pigs and hogs and poultry.

Every Car Accurately Described

The Lang Chevrolet Co. has decided to dispose of all its Used Cars which it has taken in on trade and repossessed. Due to the tremendous number of new car sales we have accumulated an overstock of Used Cars and we have decided to let the public buy them at their own price in this manner. Practically all of these cars have been reconditioned and repainted and carry our usual Used Car Guarantee.

As each car is brought up to the selling block the Auctioneer will give a detailed, truthful report regarding its condition, mechanical and otherwise. If the car has any defects whatsoever he will explain them, and if it is a guaranteed car. The Lang Chevrolet Co. will live up to the guarantee in every way as it always has on cars sold in the past. You can trade your car for one of the good Used Cars before 1:30 P. M. of day of sale.

We want you to know that you can buy at this Auction Sale with the same assurance of lasting satisfaction that you would have buying at private sale. The Lang Chevrolet Co. will positively guarantee that every sale made at this Auction will be sold as stated above. You will see the finest selection of used cars ever offered at auction in Xenia at this sale. Ninety per cent of all Cars sold in America today are sold through dealers. Eliminate this ninety per cent. Buy one of these cars at your own price.

It's amazing the way all-mash-fed chicks grow

THE way baby chicks thrive and grow when fed on UBIKO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration is little short of miraculous. No weak, droopy, listless chicks with overgrown wing and tail feathers—or with no feathers at all—when UBIKO ALL-MASH is fed regularly.

This ration will promote a rapid, well-balanced growth of body and feathers. It will make firm flesh and strong bone — no weak legs with UBIKO-fed chicks. That's because it is a complete ration and every ingredient is chosen with the greatest care and has been thoroughly tested. Sound, wholesome grains supplemented with choice meat scraps, dried buttermilk, cod-liver oil, bone meal, salt and charcoal make UBIKO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration practically perfect.

The advantages of all-mash feeding are decidedly worth while. Self-feeders prevent the usual crowding that accompanies litter-feeding. The ration is always clean. By no chance can the chicks pick up mouldy, decayed grains that may carry disease and parasites. Again, all-mash feeding is convenient. It is a time and labor saver. It does away with all guesswork, as UBIKO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration provides all the nutrients needed by the growing pullets and cockerels.

Get the facts—

We will be glad to tell you more about the UBIKO ALL-MASH System and supply descriptive circulars. We also sell the entire line of UBIKO World Record Feeds for dairy cattle, horses, pigs and hogs and poultry.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, Princess Paul Chavchavadze selects OLD GOLD

"I was much intrigued by the invitation to make a blindfold test of your leading brands of American cigarettes, to see how they compared with each other and with those I had smoked abroad. Could one really taste the difference? I wondered.

"But when I was handed these cigarettes, one by one, I realized at once that there was a difference and that the test was conclusive. One cigarette was so much more appealing, so much more delicate in flavor. Oh, and so much smoother!

"When the test was over and I was told that the cigarette of my choice was OLD GOLD I understood at once why this cigarette is so popular among my American friends."

Nina Chavchavadze

PRINCESS PAUL CHAVCHAVADZE, Sister of Mrs. Wm. B. Leeds

© P. Lorillard Co., Est. 1760

How Test Was Made

Subject was blindfolded, and, in the presence of two responsible witnesses, was given one each of the four leading cigarettes to smoke. To clear the taste, coffee was served before each cigarette. The Princess was entirely unaware of the identity of these cigarettes during test. After smoking the four cigarettes, the Princess was asked to designate by number her choice. Without hesitation she replied, "No. 3"... which was OLD GOLD.

"Just for Pleasure"

For a pleasure trip, and to visit his factories in London, Cork and Glasgow, Henry Ford sailed with Mrs. Ford aboard the White Star liner Majestic. They expect to return by the same vessel May 7. The couple occupied the royal suite, which was built for the Kaiser when the liner was the "Bismarck."

SWEETHEARTS By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

Copyright, 1928, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, daughter of John Fenton, a periodical drunkard, has just obtained her first job as typist in the office of Armitage & Son. Ever since she has been able to understand, her father has told her that her mother had deserted them for a man who had more money than he, and insists that every woman has her price.

Lynda's one friend and companion since childhood is David Kenmore, who holds a position as salesman with Armitage & Son.

At the office Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David, and is consequently jealous of her. Emily decides to make it as uncomfortable for Lynda as possible. It is just dawning upon David that he is in love with Lynda, although he has imagined that he is interested in Emily.

Returning from the office one evening, Lynda finds that her father has deserted her. David calls for her next morning, tells her that he loves her, and that if she can get someone to stay with her, and will wait until the first of the year, he'll ask her to be his wife.

Lynda finds an old school acquaintance, Claire Stanhope, working in the office, and asks her to come and live with her.

Ralph Armitage sends for Lynda to come to his office.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIII
LYNDA HAS A NEW JOB

"Will he never speak?" Lynda asked herself, as Ralph Armitage continued to regard her curiously.

At that moment a peculiar smile started at the corner of his mouth and traveled like a ray of light to his eyes.

"You are reallly very small and very young, Miss Fenton," he said. "I'm over nineteen, and Miss Gallop told me yesterday that I was a very goo dstenographer—as good as any in the office."

"Yes, she told me the same thing, and the last few days she has been testing you out, at my request."

Lynda's head bowed. She was almost sure that he was going to tell her she would not do.

"I don't mind working overtime until I learn the routine of the office," she impulsively exclaimed. "If you will give me a little time I'm sure I can satisfy you, Mr. Armitage."

"You satisfy me now, Miss Fenton."

Lynda sat up straight in her chair. She wondered whether she had heard aright.

"I have seen some of your work and asked Miss Gallop about you, and at last asked her to send you to me."

"Miss Calla, my secretary, is going to take a long vacation; in fact, I am almost sure she is not coming back, and I've been looking about in the outer office for someone to take her place. I had almost decided to go outside for someone, when you popped into my vision. Whenever I passed through the office you did not see me at all. Your black head was always bent over your work. I must say, it intrigued me, particularly as you were always so busy you never saw anyone around you in working hours. When I asked Miss Gallop about you, she was most enthusiastic. Of course, I wanted the best stenographer in the place. She seems to think that is you."

Ralph Armitage's smile was now very winning, as he walked around to where Lynda was sitting. She thought he was going to put his hand upon her shoulder, but he did not. She felt a throbbing in her slender throat as his eyes traveled over the slim lines of her figure. A tingle of excitement ran through her veins. Was this what her father meant when he said there was something in every woman that responded to the worst side of a man?

What was this Mr. Armitage was saying?

"Miss Fenton, would you like to take Miss Calla's place for a few weeks, with the understanding that if you can do her work the place will be yours permanently?

Miss Calla was a kind of left-over when my father vacated this office, and at times she made me feel like a little boy, her interest is so motherly. For some time I have wanted to suggest some innovations of my own in the details of my work, but to tell the truth, I didn't dare."

Ralph Armitage said this with another of his rare smiles, as though he were already sharing a secret with Lynda.

Still she was unable to say a word. Her heart was beating so fast that she had a feeling he could see it fluttering through the flimsy silk that covered her young bosom.

She rose to her feet. He was so much taller that he could still look down upon her.

"I hope you understand how grateful and proud I am, if you think I can do your work, and I will try very hard to make good, Mr. Armitage. If I don't, it will be because I don't know how."

"Then that's settled, Miss Fenton," the "young boss" said, holding out his hand. She put hers into it and wondered whether he felt the electric shock of the contact, as she did.

How could she have thought he was sad or that his mouth was somber? His face was triumphantly happy, and he was smilling in a way that drew her very soul to her tremulous mouth.

She slowly withdrew her hand and told herself that she was silly to imagine that there was the slightest lingering in his clasp, although she was not at all unconscious that her fingers were tingling.

Lynda never knew how she got out of the "young boss'" office, but she was so pale when she returned to her desk that Emily Andrews whispered: "Did he 'can' you?"

The question recalled her to earth.

"No. Mr. Armitage wants me to take his dictation for a few days," she answered, primly.

Emily looked murderous for an instant, and then exclaimed:

"Do you mean to tell me, Lynda Fenton, that you fell for that old stuff? Any one could see that he was nutty about you the first minute he caught a glimpse of you."

"I didn't know Mr. Armitage ever had seen me until today," began Lynda, quite haughtily.

"Don't try to high-hat me. Be your age, my dear, be your age," was Emily's contemptuous retort. "I'll tell the pink-eyed planet that you know your Bermudas from the common, or garden, variety. You've worked pretty fast, too, I'll say, but let me wise you up to one thing. Every girl in this place is going to high hat you plenty, for every one of them has hoped, that some day, the 'young boss' would reach out and single her out of the crowd to grace his office, just as he has you. Every one has known for the last month that Calla was going away, and when they find out you've copped the big plumb, oh, boy! I'm sorry for you, all right."

"Would you give up the job, Emily, just because the girls in this office might hate you for getting it?"

SWEETHEARTS

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE", ETC.

Copyright, 1928, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, daughter of John Fenton, a periodical drunkard, has just obtained her first job as typist in the office of Armitage & Son. Ever since she has been able to understand, her father has told her that her mother had deserted them for a man who had more money than he, and insists that every woman has her price.

Lynda's one friend and companion since childhood is David Kenmore, who holds a position as salesman with Armitage & Son.

At the office Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David, and is consequently jealous of her. Emily decides to make it as uncomfortable for Lynda as possible. It is just dawning upon David that he is in love with Lynda, although he has imagined that he is interested in Emily.

Returning from the office one evening, Lynda finds that her father has deserted her. David calls for her next morning, tells her that he loves her, and that if she can get someone to stay with her, and will wait until the first of the year, he'll ask her to be his wife.

Lynda finds an old school acquaintance, Claire Stanhope, working in the office, and asks her to come and live with her.

Ralph Armitage sends for Lynda to come to his office.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIII

LYNDA HAS A NEW JOB

"Will he never speak?" Lynda asked herself, as Ralph Armitage continued to regard her curiously.

At that moment a peculiar smile started at the corner of his mouth and traveled like a ray of light to his eyes.

"You are reallly very small and very young, Miss Fenton," he said.

"I'm over nineteen, and Miss Gallop told me yesterday that I was a very goo dstenographer—as good as any in the office."

"Yes, she told me the same thing, and the last few days she has been testing you out, at my request."

Lynda's head bowed. She was almost sure that he was going to tell her she would not do.

"I don't mind working overtime until I learn the routine of the office," she impulsively exclaimed. "If you will give me a little time I'm sure I can satisfy you, Mr. Armitage."

"You satisfy me now, Miss Fenton."

Lynda sat up straight in her chair. She wondered whether she had heard aright.

"I have seen some of your work and asked Miss Gallop about you, and at last asked her to send you to me."

"Miss Calla, my secretary, is going to take a long vacation; in fact, I am almost sure she is not coming back, and I've been looking about in the outer office for someone to take her place. I had almost decided to go outside for someone, when you popped into my vision. Whenever I passed through the office you did not see me at all. Your black head was always bent over your work. I must say, it intrigued me, particularly as you were always so busy you never saw anyone around you in working hours. When I asked Miss Gallop about you, she was most enthusiastic. Of course, I wanted the best stenographer in the place. She seems to think that is you."

Ralph Armitage's smile was now very winning, as he walked around to where Lynda was sitting. She thought he was going to put his hand upon her shoulder, but he did not. She felt a throbbing in her slender throat as his eyes traveled over the slim lines of her figure. A tingle of excitement ran through her veins. Was this what her father meant when he said there was something in every woman that responded to the worst side of a man?

What was this Mr. Armitage was saying?

"Miss Fenton, would you like to take Miss Calla's place for a few weeks, with the understanding that if you can do her work the place will be yours permanently?

"Miss Calla was a kind of leftover when my father vacated this office, and at times she made me feel like a little boy, her interest is so motherly. For some time I have wanted to suggest some innovations of my own in the details of my work, but to tell the truth, I didn't dare."

Ralph Armitage said this with another of his rare smiles, as though he were already sharing a secret with Lynda.

Still she was unable to say a word. Her heart was beating so fast that she had a feeling he could see it fluttering through the flimsy silk that covered her young bosom.

She rose to her feet. He was so much taller that he could still look down upon her.

"I hope you understand how grateful and proud I am, if you think I can do your work, and I will try very hard to make good, Mr. Armitage. If I don't, it will be because I don't know how."

"Then that's settled, Miss Fenton," the "young boss" said, holding out his hand. She put hers into it and wondered whether he felt the electric shock of the contact, as she did.

How could she have thought he was sad or that his mouth was somber? His face was triumphantly happy, and he was smilling in a way that drew her very soul to her tremulous mouth.

She slowly withdrew her hand and told herself that she was silly to imagine that there was the slightest lingering in his clasp, although she was not at all unconscious that her fingers were tingling.

Lynda never knew how she got out of the "young boss'" office, but she was so pale when she returned to her desk that Emily Andrews whispered: "Did he 'can' you?"

The question recalled her to earth.

"No. Mr. Armitage wants me to take his dictation for a few days," she answered, primly.

Emily looked murderous for an instant, and then exclaimed:

"Do you mean to tell me, Lynda Fenton, that you fell for that old stuff? Any one could see that he was nutty about you the first minute he caught a glimpse of you."

"I didn't know Mr. Armitage ever had seen me until today," began Lynda, quite haughtily.

"Don't try to high-hat me. Be your age, my dear, be your age," was Emily's contemptuous retort. "I'll tell the pink-eyed planet that you know your Bermudas from the common, or garden, variety. You've worked pretty fast, too, I'll say, but let me wise you up to one thing. Every girl in this place is going to high hat you plenty, for every one of them has hoped, that some day, the 'young boss' would reach out and single her out of the crowd to grace his office, just as he has you. Every one has known for the last month that Calla was going away, and when they find out you've copped the big plumb, oh, boy! I'm sorry for you, all right."

"Would you give up the job, Emily, just because the girls in this office might hate you for getting it?"

FAMED RAILROADER WIT AND STATESMAN PNEUMONIA VICTIM

as a member of the state assembly of New York and as secretary of state.

In 1872, when he was 38 years of age, he ran for Lieut. Governor on the Liberal-Republican ticket but was defeated. A few years before he had been confirmed United States minister to Japan but had declined the appointments.

He then became counsel for the New York Central Railroad. His ability in railroad affairs won him a high place in the world of transportation. He became president of the New York Central in 1882 and held offices and directorships on many other roads.

He was president of the road until 1898 and from then on was chairman of the board of directors. He was also president of the West Shore Railroad.

DECLINES ELECTION

In 1885 he declined election as United States Senator. He also declined an appointment as secretary of state in the cabinet of President Benjamin Harrison. At the Republican national convention of 1888 he received ninety-nine votes for the presidential nomination.

He was delegate-at-large at the Republican national conventions of 1888, 1892, 1896, 1900, 1904. He nominated Harrison for the presidency in 1888.

He served two terms as United States Senator from New York State from 1899 to 1911.

Recognized as one of the leading orators of the day, he was chosen as the principal orator at the unveiling of the statue of liberty, at the centennial celebration of the inauguration of George Washington, at the opening of the Chicago world exposition in 1893 and at many other notable occasions.

He was born in Peekskill, N. Y., April 23, 1834. He received his A. B. degree at Yale in 1856 and was honored with a degree of Doctor of Laws by his Alma Mater in 1887.

MARRIED TWICE

His first wife, Elsie Hegeman, whom he married in 1871, died in 1893. He married Miss May Palmer in 1901.

Depew was reputed to have been many times a millionaire and a power behind the political horizon in the heyday of his career.

At the time of his death he was still active in the affairs of the many companies with which he was prominently affiliated.

MORE x

During his eventful career, Mr. Depew not only distinguished himself as a business man and politician, but was internationally famous as an after-dinner speaker and wit. He made his first public speech several years before Abraham Lincoln went to the White House, and, for seventy years thereafter, he continued to be heard with mirth and appreciation.

FAMED AS FINANCIER

He achieved outstanding success as a railroad man and financier. He was given his start in railroading by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt. It required persuasion to cause Depew to enter the railroad field because he had just been appointed by President Johnson as minister to Japan. He finally accepted the position of general counsel to the New York and Harlem Railroad. The commodore had just acquired the road, which he described as "junk" although it was the forerunner of the New York Central. Depew was a success from the start and later, when the New York Central was formed, he became its president.

Mr. Depew came of French Huguenot ancestors on the paternal side. His father was a merchant and a farmer. On the maternal side one of his forebears was Roger Sherman, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. He was born at Peekskill, N. Y., on April 23, 1834.

"The twelve years I served in the United States Senate were among the happiest of my life," Mr. Depew often said. He was first elected in 1898.

One of the highlights of his political career was when he seconded the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt in the convention of 1904. Eight years afterward, however, he backed Taft against Roosevelt when the Republican party was split.

ALWAYS OPTIMIST

Depew himself was once mentioned prominently for the presidency. He received ninety-nine votes for the nomination when the G. O. P. convention of 1888 appeared deadlocked, then withdrew and threw his strength to Benjamin Harrison, who was nominated and elected.

"I've always been an optimist," Mr. Depew has often related. "My father and my grandfather died of the blues, and I decided to look at things differently. The way to be contented with life is to be contented."

Mr. Depew in late years frequently expressed regret at the passing of old friends—his "playmates" as he termed them. As for himself, he said in an interview just after his last birthday, he intended to "carry on" to the end.

wire on High St. west of Chestnut St. Other work now in progress is on surrounding toll lines.

Workmen have nearly finished re-routing the toll line between Xenia and Wilmington, from the Wilmington-Xenia Pike, south on Union Road, following in a southeast direction to a point about one mile north of Wilmington. This work, being done at a cost of $22,300 to improve transmission conditions and eliminate interference, involves the removal of 1,063 poles, 1,007 crossarms, and 195 miles of wire, and the placing of 1,120 poles, 1,213 cross-arms, 244 miles of wire and 2,000 feet of fifty-pair cable.

The Xenia-Jamestown-Bowersville toll line is being rebuilt at a cost of $17,250 to provide additional circuits between Xenia and Bowersville. This line goes east from Xenia on the Xenia-Jamestown Pike, then south of Jamestown on the Jamestown-Bowersville Pike, to Bowersville. Improvement work is also being done on the Cedarville Loop from the Jamestown Pike to Cedarville.

Additional toll line is being placed and poles are being replaced on the toll line between Springfield and Xenia on the Springfield-Xenia Pike, providing additional circuits between the two communities. This involves the removal of 151 poles, 226 cross arms, and 150 miles of wire, and the placing of 169 poles, 508 cross arms, 182 miles of wire, and 1,165 feet of cable. The job is costing $17,800.

Work will soon start on the rebuilding of two and one-half miles of pole line running from Bowersville to the Greene County and Clinton County lines. Sixty poles will be placed. The job will cost $2,000. Two miles of toll line is being rebuilt between Spring Valley and Bellbrook at a cost of $1,300.

More than 500 poles are being replaced in the rural area around Xenia.

The construction program of the Ohio Bell for its territory throughout the state calls for an expenditure of $18,000,000 during this year, according to a statement issued at Cleveland by Randolph Eide, the company's vice president.

This money is for new switchboards, lines, cables and other equipment and does not include the operating expenses of the company. It is to provide facilities for the 38,000 telephones which the company expects to add, and to handle the normal growth in use of the local and long distance telephone.

"Our imaginations must be called upon to understand the magnitude of this program," said Mr. Eide.

"Working eight hours a day, six days a week, one individual would have to spend $57,700 a day, or $120 a minute, to dispose of $18,000,000 in one year. Ten thousand dollars buys an attractive home in most cities today. The equivalent of a fair-sized city, 1,800 such homes, could be purchased with an amount equal to the money we spend for new construction in one year."

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

SUGGESTED AS BEST FITTED TO SUCCEED TO COOLIDGE CHAIR

Lowden, and after him Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

Several of the Ohio members were inclined to believe Senator Fess would emerge out of the situation as the dominant force in the Republican party in Ohio. They said he showed the qualities of leadership in Columbus, and that the recognition that has come to him in being selected to be temporary chairman of the Republican national convention had enhanced his position with the party in the state. Moreover, from now on, he is to be the chief federal patronage dispenser in the state.

As convention "keynoter" it will be Senator Fess' job to glorify the achievements of the Coolidge administration, a task that will be altogether to his liking. In fact, he has been doing little else for the last six or eight months. On the floor of the senate, before state legislatures, in state conventions and in public speeches generally he has lauded the president and his administration, and until the president indicated that it was embarrasing, was predicting the presidents renomination in spite of his "I do not choose to run" statement last August.

Mr. Fess had become so proficient in his eulogies of the Coolidge administration that he was invited to make the principal speech at the dinner attended by the members of the Republican national committee when they were here last December to select the convention city. It was that speech that convinced Chairman Butler that the Ohio senator was the logical person to make the keynote speech at the national convention.

Senator Fess had been mentioned frequently among the possibilities for temporary chairman, but the fact that his colleague in the senate, the late Senator Frank B. Willis, was an active candidate for the presidential nomination complicated the situation somewhat. Senator Willis' sudden death last Friday night removed any opposition that may have developed on that score.

Senator Fess made no effort to conceal his elation at having been chosen. He regards it to be a great honor to be selected to make the keynote speech, and, moreover, the selection could not have come at a more opportune time, so far as his political fortunes are concerned.

The presidential contest in Ohio has been fraught with peril to Senator Fess' chances to succeed himself in the senate, and it was with difficulty that he has avoided situations that would have involved him in a party quarrel. Though a candidate for delegate at large on the Willis ticket, he was known to be friendly to the candidacy of Secretary Hoover, which explains why he hasn't taken an active part in the campaign.

Now, having been selected to be temporary chairman of the national convention, he can take the high and lofty ground that, in such capacity, he must remain neutral toward all presidential candidacies, and that is what he proposes to do.

Moreover, his selection is expected to increase his chances for election as delegate-at-large, and also improve his chances for re-election to the senate.

The choice of Senator Fess met with universal approval among Republican leaders in the senate, particularly the Old Guard leaders.

FAMED RAILROADER WIT AND STATESMAN PNEUMONIA VICTIM

as a member of the state assembly of New York and as secretary of state.

In 1872, when he was 38 years of age, he ran for Lieut. Governor on the Liberal-Republican ticket but was defeated. A few years before he had been confirmed United States minister to Japan but had declined the appointments.

He then became counsel for the New York Central Railroad. His ability in railroad affairs won him a high place in the world of transportation. He became president of the New York Central in 1882 and held offices and directorships on many other roads.

He was president of the road until 1898 and from then on was chairman of the board of directors. He was also president of the West Shore Railroad.

DECLINES ELECTION

In 1885 he declined election as United States Senator. He also declined an appointment as secretary of state in the cabinet of President Benjamin Harrison. At the Republican national convention of 1888 he received ninety-nine votes for the presidential nomination.

He was delegate-at-large at the Republican national conventions of 1888, 1892, 1896, 1900, 1904. He nominated Harrison for the presidency in 1888.

He served two terms as United States Senator from New York State from 1899 to 1911.

Recognized as one of the leading orators of the day, he was chosen as the principal orator at the unveiling of the statue of liberty, at the centennial celebration of the inauguration of George Washington, at the opening of the Chicago world exposition in 1893 and at many other notable occasions.

He was born in Peekskill, N. Y., April 23, 1834. He received his A. B. degree at Yale in 1856 and was honored with a degree of Doctor of Laws by his Alma Mater in 1887.

MARRIED TWICE

His first wife, Elsie Hegeman, whom he married in 1871, died in 1893. He married Miss May Palmer in 1901.

Depew was reputed to have been many times a millionaire and a power behind the political horizon in the heyday of his career.

At the time of his death he was still active in the affairs of the many companies with which he was prominently affiliated.

MORE

During his eventful career, Mr. Depew not only distinguished himself as a business man and politician, but was internationally famous as an after-dinner speaker and wit. He made his first public speech several years before Abraham Lincoln went to the White House, and, for seventy years thereafter, he continued to be heard with mirth and appreciation.

FAMED AS FINANCIER

He achieved outstanding success as a railroad man and financier. He was given his start in railroading by Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt. It required persuasion to cause Depew to enter the railroad field because he had just been appointed by President Johnson as minister to Japan. He finally accepted the position of general counsel to the New York and Harlem Railroad. The commodore had just acquired the road, which he described as "junk" although it was the forerunner of the New York Central. Depew was a success from the start and later, when the New York Central was formed, he became its president.

Mr. Depew came of French Huguenot ancestors on the paternal side. His father was a merchant and a farmer. On the maternal side one of his forebears was Roger Sherman, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. He was born at Peekskill, N. Y., on April 23, 1834.

"The twelve years I served in the United States Senate were among the happiest of my life," Mr. Depew often said. He was first elected in 1898.

One of the highlights of his political career was when he seconded the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt in the convention of 1904. Eight years afterward, however, he backed Taft against Roosevelt when the Republican party was split.

ALWAYS OPTIMIST

Depew himself was once mentioned prominently for the presidency. He received ninety-nine votes for the nomination when the G. O. P. convention of 1888 appeared deadlocked, then withdrew and threw his strength to Benjamin Harrison, who was nominated and elected.

"I've always been an optimist," Mr. Depew has often related. "My father and my grandfather died of the blues, and I decided to look at things differently. The way to be contented with life is to be contented."

Mr. Depew in late years frequently expressed regret at the passing of old friends—his "playmates" as he termed them. As for himself, he said in an interview just after his last birthday, he intended to "carry on" to the end.
